Mother Charged With Manslaughter

PRANCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP)—A charge of manslaughter has been laid against Mrs. Signa Hanburg in connection with the recent deaths of her two children in a fire that destroyed her home. She has been freed on $1,000 bail pending preliminary hearing, set for March 17.

The charge was laid on instructions of the Attorney-General and alleges that Mrs. Hanburg "failed to provide sufficient protection for her children, and disregard of her duty in that behalf, caused their deaths."

Earlier, a coroner's jury decided that Ronald Fossum, four, Lorraine Hanburg, two, died of smoke suffocation.

Blow Up Bridges In Fast Retreat From Canadians

WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY IN GERMANY (CP)—The German bridgehead west of the Rhine opposite Wesel was caving in tonight with enemy paratroopers withdrawing swiftly toward that river town where the Germans blew up the rail and road bridges after the last of their heavy guns had rumbled across.

Germans still left in the bridgehead will have to choose their escape by ferry. The 4th Canadian Division, after clearing out Veen, advanced northeast and linked up with the 2nd Division.

The 2nd Division, in its surge eastward, captured 17 German officers and 400 troops of other ranks, including a number of artillery observation officers who had been spotting for enemy gun-fire from the opposite bank of the Rhine.

This loss to the enemy reduced artillery fire on the Canadians and smoke screens along the Rhine also blotted direct observation of the enemy gunners.

Russians Capture Half of Kuestrin

LONDON (CP)—The Russians have captured the northern half of the fortress of Kuestrin on the Oder east of Berlin and have crossed the Warthe River bridges into the southern part, the German radio said tonight.

Dance Hall Cashier Routs Armed Thug

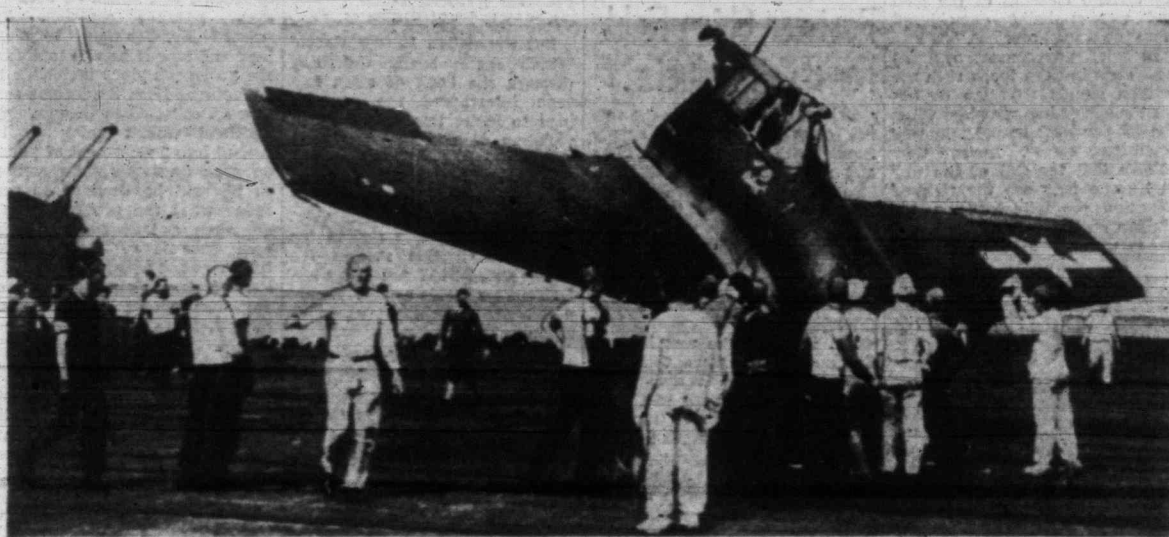

VANCOUVER (CP)—A warning from his intended victim to get going while the going was good, was heeded by a lone armed bandit, who attempted Friday night to hold up Miss Gertrude Foster, cashier at a Vancouver dance hall.

In his haste to get away he left behind 50 cents which he had tendered for an admission ticket. Miss Foster told detectives the bandit approached the counter and passed over a 50 cent piece. She handed him a ticket and 10 cents change.

"In place of taking up the ticket and change, he produced a revolver and threatened the doorman and myself."

After considerable argument the man backed out the back door and fled across a vacant lot.

It Took Skill and Luck to Land That Half-Plane on Deck

Combined skill and luck brought this U.S. Navy pilot to the deck of his carrier where he is seen climbing out of his Grumman Hellcat after landing with half a plane. The craft, weakened by Japanese ack-ack fire during an attack on Luzon, held together until the pilot wobbled the cripple as he landed on the carrier.

Arsenal, Chelsea Meet Millwall West Ham In Semifinals of Cup

By ALLAN NICKELSON

LONDON (CP)—Arsenal will meet Millwall and Chelsea will battle West Ham United in League South Football Cup semifinals in London next Saturday. All semifinals but Arsenal, who made certain of a play-off spot last week, were decided today as the group 4 cup qualifying competition ended with a couple of upsets before huge crowds. The leader of each group advanced into the semifinals.

The biggest surprise came when Luton Town, who previously managed to obtain only one point in five games, defeated Charlton Athletic 1 to 0. The result toppled Charlton from the group leadership and placed Chelsea, victors over Crystal Palace, 2 to 0, before a crowd of 21,000, into the semifinal round.

A minor upset occurred when West Ham United, trounced Queens Park Rangers, 5 to 0, before 20,000, and jumped over their victims into the top spot. Millwall edged Brighton 1 to 0, while Portsmouth's 4 to 2 triumph over Arsenal didn't matter, as Arsenal has a stranglehold on first place.

Vancouver's Hopes For Special Grant Of $500,000 Sink

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver's civic delegation is back in Vancouver today in a none-too-hopeful mood after pressing Premier Hart and his cabinet Friday for a special $500,000 to help meet the city's urgent civic needs for 1945.

"They asked why we didn't take advantage of our mill rate leeway," said Mayor Cornett. "But it is only $67 mills we can raise our tax rate and that would just bring in around $180,000, which won't solve the problem."

Mayor Cornett said Premier Hart had promised to take the Vancouver request under consideration but had given no indication of when the city may expect an answer.

"I wouldn't like to say what action we will take if we are refused," he added.

"I think we gave the government the opportunity to make a fine gesture by showing the mayors and reeves of every B.C. city and municipality that they have the interests of this province at heart."

(The civic delegation asked that the special grant be accompanied by others, on a per capita basis, to all other municipalities.)

"I haven't any great hopes," declared Ald. John Bennett, civic finance chairman. "We presented all the arguments we could but personally I don't think they will do much good."

Higher Grade Fuel May Be Scarcer In Canada Next Winter

By JACK WILLIAMS

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians will be short of top-grade fuel next winter, regardless of war developments; but the condition of individual coal bins when cold weather rolls around again will depend largely on what co-operation householders give this summer. Coal Controller E. J. Brunning said today.

"There are a lot of uncertainties about next year's fuel situation, but one thing is sure—substitute fuels have become a must," Mr. Brunning said in an interview.

"Whether the war in Europe ends this summer or not there is going to be less anthracite available next winter and people will have to use more lower grade fuels."

Canada's consumption of coal and coke for domestic purposes has climbed from 10,700,000 tons in 1939 to 14,900,000 last year and approximately 65 per cent of that has to come from the United States.

LITTLE WELSH COAL
Should the war in Europe end this summer there can still be little hope of any improvement in the coal supply situation. It would be months at least before miners now in the services got back to underground work and it is considered unlikely that the production rate will continue at its present high mark. Added to that is the prospect that little Welsh anthracite will reach Canada for next winter.

"In the west the mines turned out their requirements for this winter and if the people who use western coal buy it during the summer and keep the mines busy we don't expect any great difficulty," Mr. Brunning said.

Stock piles built up last summer along the great lakes saved the day as far as the fuel situation in central Canada was concerned this winter. Deliveries from United States now are only returning to normal after the storm which tied up mines and transportation three months ago. "We plan to build stock piles again this year," Mr. Brunning said.

Allied Big Guns Throwing Shells At Rhur Plants

By JAMES M. LONG

PARIS (AP)—United States troops, rolling by thousands over the Rhine bridge at Remagen, flung back a tank-supported German counterattack today and Berlin said U.S. troops also were crossing the river by boats four or five miles downstream and had entered Honnef.

A front dispatch said German reinforcements were racing up against the United States 1st Army's bridgehead, 50 square miles in size, for a showdown battle.

A Berlin broadcast said U.S. in "storm rafts" were crossing the Rhine near Honnef, at the northern end of the bridgehead. Honnef is five miles north of Remagen, on a superhighway leading to the Ruhr.

Upstream near the west bank United States 3rd Army tanks struck to within two miles of Coblenz, and a trap tightened on 20,000 Germans northwest of that city.

The Ludendorff bridge at Remagen was under shellfire, but despite increasing resistance Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' men broadened their cross-Rhine foothold and held firm in the highlands east of the river.

Allied armies were massed along a 150-mile stretch of the Rhine, and United States 9th Army 240-MM. guns hurled shells at long range into the Ruhr factories. The Krupp plant at Essen was within their range.

Five other bodies are in the city morgue. They were recovered Wednesday and Thursday. So far they have not been positively identified.

Three persons injured at the time of the blast are still in hospital today.

Jules Lanthier, the ship's cook, who had received serious abdominal injuries, was released from hospital Friday night.

Firemen left the vessel Friday after putting the last fires out. Some of them may be called to give evidence in the formal inquiry now being prepared by Mr. Justice Sidney Smith, as commissioner, and Dugald Donaghy, as Crown counsel. Date for the probe will not be set for another 10 days.

Pacific Salvage Co. experts may make the first attempt to refloat explosion-blasted Greenhill Park at high tide, 5:54 a.m. Monday.

Romania Will Get Transylvania Back

LONDON (CP)—Marshal Stalin has agreed to the return of Transylvania from Hungary to Romania, the Moscow radio announced today.

THEY ALL RETURNED... Gen. Douglas MacArthur and members of his staff return to Corregidor on first visit since 1942. Standing in rubble that once was the general's home are from left to right: Brig.-Gen. Logrande A. Billor, PRO; Maj.-Gen. Chas. P. Stivers; deputy chief of staff; Brig.-Gen. Chas. A. Willoughby, G-2; Maj.-Gen. Spencer B. Akin, chief signal officer; Lt.-Gen. Richard K. Sutherland, chief of staff, USSAF; Maj.-Gen. Hugh J. Casey, chief engineer; Col. Sydney L. Huff, civil affairs; Maj.-Gen. William F. Marquet, anti-aircraft officer; Lt.-Col. J. R. McMicking, 11th Airborne Division.

2 of Bodies Found On Greenhill Park May Be From Crew

VANCOUVER (CP)—City police said today they presume two bodies removed from the bulk of the freighter Greenhill Park Friday are those of two crew members, reported missing since the vessel blew up Tuesday.

The men were Donald Munn and Julius Kun. The bodies themselves are charred beyond recognition. But they were found in the chief steward's room on the starboard side of the main deck, where the two men were reported to have been working when the blast occurred.

Five other bodies are in the city morgue. They were recovered Wednesday and Thursday. So far they have not been positively identified.

Three persons injured at the time of the blast are still in hospital today.

To Have Trial Run

The 113-ton seine-type fish-packer Co-operator 4, recently built for the Kyuquot Trollers' Co-operative Association of Victoria, is undergoing her first trial run today at Vancouver. It is announced by A. E. Carr, managing secretary of the association, that Mr. Carr journeyed to the mainland Wednesday for an earlier trial, but circumstances prevented the run.

If the test proves her acceptable, the vessel will be in Victoria March 18. Work was begun on the packer last June. She has a 200-horsepower Atlas Diesel engine and is completely modern in every respect with showers for the crew of six, running hot water and the latest in radio-telephone equipment. On deck will be the latest in fish handling equipment.

The vessel will be in charge of Capt. A. Ertesvåg.

Leonid Gordienko, naval rating, was fined $50 or 30 days imprisonment by Magistrate J. C. Hall in city court Thursday for assaulting City Police Constable Carl Carlson in a street fight in the early hours of New Year's Day.

No Buyer's Spree When European War Finishes

By NORMAN M. MACLEOD
OTTAWA — Parliament Hill agencies that deal with the civilian front-held out little hope today of indulging in any sort of a buyer's spree when 35 per cent of war industry is changed over to peacetime production at the end of the war in Europe.

On the contrary, their view was that when the partial reconversion of industry from war to peace uses heralded by Reconstruction Minister C. D. Howe at his first press conferences comes, consumer goods generally may be scarcer than ever—for a variety of reasons.

NO CARS OR RADIOS

Of two things they were reasonably certain, namely:

1. That 1,200,000 prewar vintage passenger automobiles will have to have their motors tinkered and their tires replaced for another year, unless their owners are content to use "shank's mare" as their means of transportation.
2. That the time is still several months distant at which it will be possible to throw away a radio simply because its tonal qualities have worn to a thin screech, or it has become generally allergic to static.

This is notwithstanding the fact that the cut-back of war production heralded by Minister Howe in his press interview would mean

Would Curb Sale Of Lemon Extract

Mrs. Nancy Hodges, Liberal Coalitionist member for Victoria, urged in the Legislature Friday that action be taken to curb the sale of lemon extract for drinking purposes.

"I don't know just how it could be done," she said, "but the situation is becoming serious. There have been cases of deaths from drinking too much of it."

Attorney-General Maitland pointed out that being a household commodity it is available to all, and any control would have to cover all extracts, not just lemon.

C. Grant MacNeil, C.C.F., Burrard, said sale of the extract in 16 oz. bottles was partly responsible.

Labor Minister Pearson noted that the 16-oz. was standard size for extract bottles sold to bakeries, restaurants and similar establishments.

"Well, anyone would know if a man in a 16-oz. bottle he wouldn't be going to make a lemon pie," said Mrs. Hodges.

Postwar China Field For B.C. Products

British Columbia after the war not only will probably supply China with more lumber, fish and manufactured products but also will contribute through supplying the reconstruction and development of the republic, according to Frederick Palmer, in Victoria before filling his latest assignment as first Canadian Trade Commissioner to Chungking.

Mr. Palmer, who was here to line up postwar trade with B.C. companies before returning to Ottawa and then flying to Chungking, indicated that Canada's trade after the war with China would probably be greater than ever before. But, he indicated, China would need much rebuilding and development, particularly of transportation facilities.

Postwar trade, he said, would be dependent on this development and on financial arrangements between the two countries. B.C., he said, facing the Pacific and having the products that China would require, would probably receive the lion's share of Canada's future trade with the republic.

Mr. Palmer had served as Canadian trade representative in Australia for several years before returning to Ottawa late last year. Previous to that he had been in the U.S., England, Belgium, Germany and Scandinavia, on Canadian trade missions.

Vancouver Accused Makes With the Slang

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Dead End Kids couldn't use better "lingo" than Adolph Ruck, 38, who confessed in police court Friday to the holding of a city candy store Sunday night.

"I went into the joint and told the old guy to stand back," Ruck told police officers. "Then I punched the damper, hoisted $25, doused the light and took it to the land."

When asked about the gun he was allegedly carrying Ruck said: "Brother, I threw it to the bottom of the ocean."

He expressed his willingness to confess after the formal charge had been read to him by saying: "If I can get a fix from the croaker, I'll cough."

He was remanded one week for sentence.

For a period of more than two months, employment conditions have been virtually stalemated according to figures released by the local national selective service office. This week there are 363 unemployed men, 482 women; 758 vacancies for men and 234 for women. There were 223 men placed in employment during the week and 141 women.

'Intermingled' International Police Force for Peace Favored

By ALEX SINGLETON
LONDON (AP) — Strong sentiment for the quick creation of an "intermingled" international police force to back the mandates of the World Security League was developing today among some of Europe's smaller nations, with the probability they will press their case at the San Francisco Conference.

A high-placed official of one of these governments—reluctant to permit the use of his name "in advance of the hearing"—suggested in an interview that such a force could be used for policing Germany for an indefinite period once complete mastery over Germany could be achieved and the initial occupation period ended.

This, he argued, would serve a double purpose of preventing a premature ending of the period of occupation while providing a training ground for welding such an international army into a coordinated force ready to act immediately to put down any trouble.

Log of The House

By LESLIE FOX

The House was bad-tempered Friday. And when the House is in a bad temper it does a lot of talking. So progress through the Attorney-General's estimates started very slowly.

It all began when Wallace Lefaux, Vancouver Centre C.C.F., attempted to make a personal attack on Attorney-General Maitland. He had just started to say that Mr. Maitland was the wrong man for the job and he proposed to reply to his "frenzied oratory" of Wednesday when Premier Hart pulled him up sharply, told him to stick to the subject, which in this case was Mr. Maitland's $7,500 salary. Committee chairman Sgd. Ldr. E. V. Finland agreed that Mr. Lefaux was irrelevant and that settled the matter for the moment.

PICKED WRONG TIME TO MAKE THIS SPEECH

But Opposition Leader Harold Winch began busily thumbing through the book of rules and soon interrupted the proceedings to insist this was a harsh violation of a private member's rights. Mr. Hart retorted Mr. Lefaux had picked the wrong time to make his speech. So they called in Mr. Speaker Whittaker. He put it to a vote and in the first division this session the House voted 24-17 not to let Mr. Lefaux make his attack. It was a straight government vs. opposition split.

From there onwards Mr. Maitland had a hard time getting his salary. Though Mr. Lefaux did not try to return to his theme, the other members talked about everything from public safety in crime cases to lemon extract drinking, to income tax, to coyote bounties. Every once in a while someone bobbed up to call someone else out of order and tell him to stick to the point. Finally Education Minister Harry Perry, a former speaker, came into the fray armed with long quotations from May, the parliamentary authority, to show that just about everything that had been said was really out of order and the House was wasting a lot of time. However, that did not stop the opposition and for a time it looked like a minor filibuster.

TOO MUCH PUBLICITY IN CRIME CASE, SHE SAYS

In the course of it many subjects were covered. Mrs. Dolly Steeves, North Vancouver C.C.F., complained about the intimate details that appeared in the papers in the Jenny Conroy murder case and wanted Mr. Maitland to order the police not to give out such information in crime cases. Mr. Maitland said he'd been annoyed, too, the way a recent burglary of his house was written up, but his police force had not handled the West Vancouver case.

Harold Winch brought up the case of Robert Gardner, who died in Nanaimo this week. He wanted the government to compensate the wife and two children because, he said, Mr. Gardner's health was ruined by a beating-up he received from a policeman while picketing in the Blubber Bay strike in 1938. The police officer in question served a term in jail for his part in the matter, but Mr. Winch thought the government had a moral responsibility to Gardner's family. Mr. Maitland promised to investigate.

This caused Arthur Turner, Vancouver East C.C.F., to plead for compensation for the victims of Tuesday's Vancouver ship blast disaster. He said merchant-mariners were unfairly treated and there was doubt whether the families of those killed, or the injured men, would be compensated. Mr. Maitland noted that for investigation, too.

WANTS SMALLER HEAD ON GLASSES OF BEER

Since the Liquor Control Board comes under Mr. Maitland, the problem of liquor was bound to come up. Herbert Gargrave, C.C.F. MacKenzie, demanded something be done to give the working man a full glass of beer in beer parlors by specifying the size of glasses to be served and the amount of head a bartender is allowed to put on it. Mrs. Nancy Hodges, the Victoria Liberal-Consolidationist, thought she was getting into a frothblowers' convention, but she had a complaint about the sale of lemon extract, drinking of which as an alcoholic stimulant has now become a serious situation, she said.

Then T. D. Pattullo got round to income tax, which he does on every possible occasion. He wanted Mr. Maitland to state here and now if he will maintain the province's right invariable to get returns from the income tax, now all collected in Ottawa. Mr. Maitland wasn't going to be rushed into a statement of policy on such an important question, so he said he declined to prejudge what the province would do when a Dominion-provincial conference is called. Mr. Pattullo was not satisfied at all. All it needs is a plain statement of fact that can be settled at this minute, he said.

NAVY ALWAYS READY TO HELP, SAYS NANCY

The case of two Victoria fishermen whose boat was recently wrecked in the Straits came up when Grant MacNeil suggested there might be a better arrangement for obtaining navy assistance in searching. Mrs. Hodges said the navy would always provide a boat if the police made a formal request. She said she had personally acted as an intermediary in seeking naval aid to look for the two fishermen.

After Mr. Maitland had explained, among several other things, that although the provincial police are barred from civil service organizations, they can set up their own organization if they want, the House at last voted him his salary. By this time the early bickering had died down and most of his other votes went through without much trouble. He will spend a total of $2,425,621 next year, which includes $1,066,247 for the provincial police.

The opposition did have something to say about moving pictures and movie houses. Mrs. Steeves wants pictures graded for children and elimination of double-bill horror films that children see. George Stirling of Salmon Arm wants the front seats moved farther back to avoid ruining eyesight, and the elder Winch asked for more toilets in the big movie houses.

Before recessing for the week-end the House received four minor bills from Lands Minister Kenney and passed a resolution which will protect W. J. Asseline of Atlin from losing his seat due to his absence in British Guiana.

Isley Best Known Member of King Cabinet

By CANADIAN INSTITUTE OF PUBLIC OPINION

TORONTO—The latest nationwide survey conducted by the Canadian Institute reveals the fact that Finance Minister Isley is the best-known member of MacKenzie King's Ottawa cabinet, throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion.

To the extent of the average Canadian's recognition of the various members of the cabinet, opinion reporters of the Gallup Poll asked the following question: "Do you happen to know the names of any of the members of MacKenzie King's Ottawa cabinet? What are their names?"

Fifty-two per cent of Canadians named Finance Minister Isley. Mr. Isley was best known in the prairie provinces where 63 per cent were familiar with his name. Next best known was McNaughton who was named by 43 per cent of Canadian voters interviewed. Twenty-four per cent were able to name Mr. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, and 21 per cent named Navy Minister Macdonald.

On the average those Canadians interviewed by Institute reporters in this poll, who were able to name any ministers at all were able to identify three members of the cabinet. Twenty-two per cent of those contacted in the poll were unable to name any minister at all, while 11 per cent gave answers that were incorrect.

named La Fleche and 7 per cent Bertrand. Another example of this sectional influence is that Minister Ian MacKenzie is better known by far, in his home province of British Columbia, than elsewhere in Canada.

After having given the respondent an opportunity to name as many cabinet ministers as he could, Poll reporters then asked an additional question: "Which cabinet minister, in your opinion, is doing his job the best?"

On this score Finance Minister Isley again headed the list, being named by 28 per cent of the cross-section. Mr. Howe was next with 5 per cent, and Mr. McNaughton followed with 3 per cent. Fifty-four per cent were unwilling to designate any particular minister on this score.

Vancouver Wants Weather Blackout

VANCOUVER—Vancouver newspapers' habit of recording adverse weather conditions here is not appreciated by some members of the Tourist Association. Mildly criticizing the press, at a meeting of the association's directors, Roy Wilson and Dr. G. Worthington asked that less publicity be given "snow flurries and other weather oddities."

"When we have a fall of snow it might be news, but when a few flakes fall, well, they don't have to put it on the front page," Mr. Wilson said.

"It took years for the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce to educate the papers in that city to lay off stories about rain and fog," he said. "Maybe we can do something with the papers here."

"I know they think it is news," said Dr. Worthington, "but the eastern papers are looking for just that sort of thing and they copy it."

Thousands of Japs Suffocated in Caves On Manila Front

MANILA (AP)—Silent on Japanese reports that Mindanao Island has been invaded, Allied officials disclosed today that several thousand of the enemy have been sealed up and suffocated in caves east of Manila by U.S. troops operating with phosphorous grenades, flame-throwers and demolition charges.

The communique reported a second air attack with more than 100 tons of bombs on Zamboanga, Mindanao's biggest city on the southwest coast, but offered no comment on enemy reports that troops had landed there Friday under the guns of two bombardment task forces.

U.S. successes east of Manila carried the invaders past the first line of a maze of caves and tunnels known as the Shimbu Line, the most heavily fortified defenses encountered on Luzon.

Estimates of "several thousand" dead Japanese there probably pushed the foe's casualties on Luzon, invaded Jan. 9, to around 100,000.

Scribes, Politicians Stage Spelling Bee

TORONTO (CP)—Two Ontario legislative reporters whose job it is to report the speeches of Premier George Drew and Opposition Leader E. B. Joffe will meet them in a spelling bee between parliamentarians and the press to be staged March 15 at the Toronto Press Club.

The reporters are Gerry Reding of the Globe and Mail, president of the Legislature Press Gallery, and Bob Nielsen of the Canadian Press, chosen with N. J. (Tip) O'Neill of the Toronto Daily Star and W. E. Elliott of the Toronto Evening Telegram to represent the Press Club.

The Premier and Mr. Joffe will be supported by Mayor Robert Saunders of Toronto and Maj. Alex C. Lewis, clerk of the Ontario Legislature and a former newspaperman.

Plant For Calgary
CALGARY (CP)—Western Gypsum Products Ltd. of Winnipeg will immediately start the construction of a gypsum mill and wallboard plant here which will cost, when completed, about $250,000 and employ about 50 people, it was announced Friday by Mayor Andrew Davison, who had been conducting negotiations for several months.

Seaforths of Vancouver Marched Up Italian Boot 'the Hard Way'

By WILLIAM BOSS
WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS ON THE ADRIATIC

(CP)—Sandwiched between static fighting along the Arno River a year ago and today's Senio River front is a month of grand fighting by the Seaforths of Canada, a Vancouver formation.

The Seaforths, who a year ago were separated by several hundred yards of muddy ridge and settled down at the Senio just 150 yards from the enemy. The Highlanders sat on one side of the Senio, while the Germans held outposts on the reverse slope. A peak over the top constituted a patrol.

In this position, the Seaforths took back on their fighting in the Hitler Line battle last May 23 when they won their ground, rested and reorganized before relieving the Irish Regiment of Canada at Poff. From there they pressed on to take Forcinone, important town on Highway No. 6 between Naples and Rome and then to Perentino, next centre of the same road, which they entered while an Alberta regiment (the Loyal Edmonton Regiment) outflanked it on the right.

ENLARGED BRIDGEHEAD
After a "breather" for Christmas, the Seaforths participated in elimination of a German bulge over the Senio northeast of Faenza and then exploited another western regiment's bridgehead over the Naviglio Canal. Then they helped establish the winter line on the Senio Jan. 6.

Decorations won by the Seaforths to date in this war include one Victoria Cross, seven Distinguished Service Orders, eight Military Crosses, four Distinguished Conduct Medals, 15 Military Medals and three mentions in dispatches. One Seaforth has been made a Member of the Order of the British Empire. Two winners of the Military Cross with "the regiment have been medical officers."

Japanese Seize All Indo-China
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Tokyo radio broadcast a communique Friday saying the Japanese in French Indo-China had seized all "key establishments and facilities" from resisting French armed forces.

The Japanese said they had decided "to defend the land singlehandedly and thereby to wipe out hostile influences."

The U.S. Communications Commission intercepted the broadcast.

The communique referred to "repeated treacherous actions" by French authorities in "secretly attempting to join hands with the anti-Axis."

It also referred to the "unpardonable disloyalty to the joint defence of 1941 on the part of the French Indo-China authorities."

The enemy communique, issued from Hanoi, said the French had refused a Japanese plan for joint defence.

Then: "Our army immediately started action and disarmed part of the French Indo-China forces and the armed police which resisted us."

New Ground Rockets Lay Heavy Barrage
LONDON (CP)—A new type ground rocket projector, described as "one of the war's most devastating weapons," now is being used in barrage work as medium artillery by British and Canadian troops on the western front.

The barrage is laid down by groups of the rocket projectors—each group consisting of 12 guns with 32 barrels each. These 384 barrels give a concentrated firepower comparable with that of more than 280 5.5-inch guns of the orthodox type.

Although considerably smaller, each missile fired by the rocket projectors is described as comparable with the 100-pound shell fired by the 5.5-inch guns.

Paris Says Fascist Gen. Roatta Recaptured
LONDON (CP)—The Paris radio said today that Gen. Mario Roatta, whose escape last week precipitated an Italian government crisis, had been recaptured. The broadcast, quoted official Rome reports, Roatta escaped while on trial in Rome on war crimes charges. He was Italian army chief of staff during the Fascist regime.

8th Victory Loan Objective Set at $1,350,000,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Isley Friday night announced the minimum objective for Canada's 8th Victory Loan campaign opening April 23 has been set at $1,350,000,000, $50,000,000 above the objective of $1,300,000,000 in the 7th Loan campaign last autumn and an all-time high mark.

In the forthcoming loan the minimum objective from individuals will be $675,000,000, an increase of $75,000,000 over the individual objective of the 7th Victory Loan.

Total sales in the 7th Victory Loan, excluding conversions, amounted to $1,517,000,000, of which $766,000,000 was purchased by individuals. Applications in the 7th Victory Loan amounted to 3,300,735.

Complete Tribunal On Seed Grain Debt

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Isley announced Friday night that Mr. Justice J. G. G. Gillanders of the Ontario Court of Appeal had been selected as the third member of the arbitral tribunal in connection with the seed grain debt dispute between Saskatchewan and the Canada federal government under the Dominion-provincial taxation agreement.

The two other members of the tribunal are George H. Steer, K.C., of Edmonton, selected by the Dominion, and Prof. Frank H. Scott of Montreal, selected by the province.

Mr. Isley's announcement said Mr. Justice Gillanders had been selected by Mr. Justice Thibault Rinfret, Chief Justice of Canada, indicating Mr. Steer and Prof. Scott, who met in Ottawa last week, had been unable to agree on selection of the third member. The agreement provided that if they did not agree the third member of the tribunal would be chosen by the Chief Justice.

Nazi General Killed
LONDON (CP)—The German radio announced Friday night that Lt. Gen. Wolf Dietrich Ritter von Xylender, chief of staff of an army group on the Eastern Front, had been killed in action on the same day he received the Knight's Cross.

Bomb Kuala Lumpur
WASHINGTON (AP)—Superfortresses rained heavy bomb loads on Kuala Lumpur, vital communications centre on the Malay peninsula northwest of Singapore, with railroad yards as the principal target.

The raid by the 20th U.S. Air Force followed by only a few hours Friday's giant Superfortress blow against Tokyo industrial plants from the 21st Bomber Command.

Approximately 40 B-29s took part in the attack on Kuala Lumpur, last hit Feb. 19 by a fleet of 60 B-29s.

The 20th Air Force headquarters here announced Friday's raid on Kuala Lumpur. Participating planes flew on the way from bases in India.

Launch 1,000th Ship

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The 1,000th vessel launched by this area's war-born shipyards slid into the Willamette River here Friday.

The ship which notched the almost incredible nautical milestone was the Ss. Notre Dame Victory, named by Henry J. Kaiser's Oregon Shipbuilding Corporation for the university at South Bend, Ind.

The ship made a total of nearly 7,800,000 tons built by this area's six yards during the war.

Mandalay Hill Taken

CALCUTTA (CP)—Troops of the 19th Indian Division have captured Mandalay Hill, key defence feature at the northeast corner of Fort Dufferin, Mandalay's inner city, and other forces are closing in from the north on the Japanese garrison of 50,000, headquarters announced today.

Hand-to-hand fighting was raging in three sections of the city, which has a normal population of 135,000, and is Burma's second largest city.

A communique said the 2nd and 20th Indian Divisions driving toward Mandalay along the east bank of the Irrawaddy, 30 miles from the city, occupied two more villages Friday in the wake of an air attack.

TIME TO KEEP CALM

SOME COLUMNISTS AND RADIO COMMENTATORS far removed from the scene of military operations in Europe have ascended the Olympian heights to pontificate about the prospects for an early collapse of Germany. Those farthest away from the battle areas are the most dogmatic; and in not a few cases the trifling matter of geographical accuracy seems worth little consideration if it does not suit the theme of the moment. But there is danger in the promotion of the idea that one crossing of the Rhine, important and highly encouraging as it is, will produce a species of paralysis among the fanatical elements of the Wehrmacht. To these men Adolf Hitler is still the god who must be obeyed; and Heinrich Himmler and his trained thugs possess the means of "persuading" the wavering.

On the other hand, of course, the present positions of the fighting fronts in the west and in the east must be causing the Nazi high command furiously to wonder what can be done to stiffen the morale of both soldier and civilian. Neither the Fuehrer nor his Gestapo chief is blind to the carefully-designed and meticulously-applied technique in the east and in the west—accelerated by decisions reached at Yalta. And they know by this time that the Herr Doktor Goebbels has failed miserably in his pet plans to divide the Allies. It may be presumed, moreover, that the main purpose of the Crimea Conference is now understood by a large body of the German populace.

What is important to bear in mind, however, is that the men in control of Germany are no longer directing a war to establish Hitler's once vaunted new order. Not a single member of the original Nazi oligarchy is in any doubt about the final outcome; the last speech of the Fuehrer revealed his own state of complete frustration. It has become a case of personal survival. The whole wicked gang is bent, therefore, on raising the price of Allied victory to the utmost; and, because this is the obvious intention, all the peoples of the United Nations will be well advised to take predictions of a sudden collapse of the enemy with a considerable amount of reserve. This has been the most unpredictable war of all time; if it ends in an unexpected manner, with the fulfillment of the Casablanca order for "unconditional surrender," so much the better.

THE TOUGHEST ASSIGNMENT

THE 19TH INDIAN DIVISION HAS driven the Japanese out of Myingyan, where the Chindwin River joins the Irrawaddy, approximately 300 miles north of Rangoon and has gained a hold on a major section of Mandalay, 40 miles to the north-east of Myingyan.

These notable advances bring into focus the calibre of the forces in that theatre. The entire Burmese campaign is an epic of jungles and distances, which, combined with the climate, make it extraordinarily difficult for the supply lines. The south-west monsoon begins blowing in May and goes on till September, and makes campaigning difficult. Hence the position established by the 19th at this time assumes greater importance.

The cutting of the Irrawaddy route at Myingyan will heavily handicap the Japanese supply route from Rangoon, and if the 19th is operating on a fairly broad front, it may reach the main railway line at Thazi shortly. But possibilities have to be regarded as impossibilities in Burma until the gallantry and capacity for sheer endurance of the Allied forces turns the impossible into the probable and finally into accomplishment.

The Burmese armies are by far the most representative forces of the whole Empire and its allies, welded into a magnificently co-ordinated machine. Brothers-in-arms of every color, race and creed, on land and sea and in the air, they operate over as long a front as that from the Baltic to the Black Sea, and have probably the toughest assignment in the war—and the least publicity.

CANADA AND PAN-AMERICA

ONE OR TWO NEWSPAPERS WHICH would not be satisfied if Canada were governed by 245 archangels continue to snipe at Mr. Mackenzie King because he took no active steps to have this country represented at the Inter-American conference of 20 American republics down in Mexico City. And it is altogether likely these same critics would have been just as belligerently critical if the Prime Minister had sought to press a Canadian claim for a seat at those deliberations. They would probably have told him this Dominion is not a republic and has no right to associate in such an intimate fashion with non-Empire countries.

It is, therefore, fitting to note that while speaking on foreign affairs in the House of Commons last Aug. 4, the Prime Minister informed the members that the opinion had been expressed in favor of Canadian membership in the Pan-American Union. He was careful to explain, however, that the constitution of the Union confined membership to the 21 American republics, and that some alteration would be necessary before this country could be admitted. Canadian participation could be based only on a general appreciation of the purposes and responsibilities of the Union; Mr. King was not altogether convinced that such appreciation then existed. And since no formal meeting of the Union had been held since 1938, if the member states had found it desirable to postpone such conferences in wartime, it was not unreasonable to suggest that Canada should delay active consideration of this topic until the world conflict had ended. On the other hand, the Prime Minister resented any suggestion that his government was unaware "of the increasing value of increasing co-operation with the other governments of the Western Hemisphere." The evidence of this was to be found in the fact that his administration was steadily developing contacts with them on every appropriate occasion; for missions to Brazil and Chile had been elevated to the ranks of embassies. Moreover, this principle was being expanded in appreciation of "the importance of progressively increasing" political relationships in the Western Hemisphere.

There was no "mystery" about Canada's absence at the current parley in Mexico City at which "The Act of Chapultepec" took form—as suggested by one newspaper when it was discovered this country was not to be represented. Furthermore, this was not a formal meeting of Pan-American Union members by any means; it was a meeting called by the Mexican government to provide an opportunity for the Foreign Ministers, or Secretaries, of the United States and the Latin-American nations south of the Rio Grande to discover more effective means of safeguarding their joint interests against internal as well as external disturbances. The conspicuous absentee, of course, was Argentina—for reasons well known—a senior member of the Union.

What this country may do in the light of the result of that meeting, particularly in view of the forthcoming deliberations of the United Nations in San Francisco, is purely conjectural. It is nevertheless plain that Canada is vitally interested in any action taken by the American republics for their mutual protection and their peaceful progress. In other words, the understandable position taken by the Prime Minister in the House of Commons last August would seem to warrant re-examination, not only because of the Dominion's role in the hemispheric scheme of things, but also to strengthen the resolve implicit in "The Act of Chapultepec." But this is no matter for partisan heat.

'ARE YOU PREPARED?'

AT A SEASON WHEN A WOMAN'S fancy lightly turns to thoughts of the Easter Parade, Mr. T. Marshall, regional allocation officer of the coal controller's division, directs attention to the prosaic problem of next winter's fuel.

The subject matter of his suggestion cannot compete in glamour with the frocks, hats and ensembles which lure feminine interest to the advertising displays these days. It is, however, one which will claim attention in view of experiences in Victoria two or three winters ago. It is a jarring note in the spring symphony, but the discord should serve to emphasize the advice Mr. Marshall gives on the need for accumulating supplies now. Bulk storage facilities and delivery services cannot guarantee adequate stocks of coal to meet the emergencies of another cold season unless householders start packing fuel into their basements early in the year.

Victoria, remembering the shivering winter when fence posts and boxes were pressed into service for domestic fires, will not, wittingly, be caught napping this year.

HOT AND COLD

WHEN MR. JAMES MELTON, STAR OF opera, stage and radio, broadcast to his listening audience some time ago that he was heading for the frigid clime of Victoria, the publicity bureau and other groups grew hot. When he arrived here the day was cool, but the reception he was given was particularly warm from a delighted audience. This jumping in temperatures is dangerous. It may produce emotional pneumonia. There should be a thermostat somewhere to stabilize the figurative mercury. Could the rapid changes have caused the winds of the last few days, or is March up to its equinoctial tricks again?

GATES

PERHAPS BECAUSE THEY HAVE THE ability to welcome or repel, gates take on definite personalities. Some swing inward at a touch in courtly greeting, a bowing and a sweeping invitation to enter. Some hang tiredly, dejectedly, as if they cared not whether the passer-by stopped to visit or walked on.

Few things cry neglect more plaintively than those which, hinge-broken, creak a mournful message of despair. Haughty austerity slides coldly from the big wrought-iron affairs closed tight between their stone pillars against warm-hearted friendliness. Chained together against intrusion, some stand guard over the broken hearts of abandoned homes. Others, doors with grilles, portholes in cloistered walls, whisper of intrigue and romance.

The modest, bright-painted cottage with its tidy front yard, makes the gate its emblem. Its neat hand-made picket frame swings easily open with the cheery clack of a metallic latch—a hallmark of pride in a well-kept home.

Warmly remembered are the big cattle gates off country roads. Heavily hinged they are to hold the stout timbers that withstand the brushing and pressing of cows going back to the barn from pasture. And worn is the bottom rail by the boots of children who swing on it on summer days. Carved initials and entwined hearts on its top bar tell the stories of adolescent loves.

Yes, gates have their personalities, and it is a sad thing to see the compromise which replaces the old types with pipe and wire. These are too cold; altogether too prosaic; they are the stuff for Halloween pranks.

Farming In Britain

By J. J. DEUTSCH

THE NATURE of postwar British agricultural policy is one of the leading factors in the circumstances that will shape the prospects for Canadian agricultural exports after the war. It can be taken for granted that future British policy will not be unrelated to what has happened in the last five years.

Under the pressure of wartime necessity an enormous transformation has taken place. British agriculture has reached a position which it has not had at any time during the last 70 years.

The rapid expansion of home agriculture was an integral part of the heroic defence of the British Isles after the fall of France in 1940. In the organization of the "siege economy" drastic measures had to be taken to save shipping space, to reduce traffic through the ports and to develop self-sufficiency. This called for a large increase in total output almost regardless of cost, in the use of every last scrap of agricultural resources no matter how poor, and in a substantial shift from the production of livestock dependent upon imported feedstuffs to cereals, potatoes, sugar and other crops for direct human consumption.

THE TASK WAS undertaken with tenacity and thoroughness. Elaborate machinery for the planning of production was established, supplies of farm implements and labor-saving devices were greatly increased, and perhaps most important, farmers were given every possible encouragement through very large increases in prices and subsidies.

The planning machinery, headed up by the Ministry of Agriculture, operates through a comprehensive system of local county war agricultural committees. These committees, on which serve some 4,000 to 5,000 of Britain's best farmers, were given very extensive responsibilities and powers. Each county is assigned production quotas for the various crops. The committees have power to direct farmers, where necessary, to plant certain crops and to plow up pastures. The committees allocate labor, fertilizers and gasoline. They may arrange the financing of purchases of farm equipment, undertake drainage and take over vacant land. They advise on farming methods and generally supervise all farming activities in their community.

In order to enforce their programs the committees have power, with the consent of the minister, to dispossess farmers because of "bad farming," and some 9,000 have been dispossessed. About 200,000 acres of land are farmed directly by the committees. Extensive planning was combined with large additions to the equipment of British farms. The production of modern tractors and up-to-date machinery in the United Kingdom was greatly increased. Substantial quantities of farm machinery were imported from the United States and Canada. Fifty per cent of the cost of drainage works and of putting water into farm buildings was paid for by the government. Supplies of fertilizers were increased and heavily subsidized. The subsidy on the distribution of lime alone runs to nearly $20,000,000 a year. As a consequence of these measures, the technical efficiency of British farming was noticeably improved.

Planning and improved efficiency were important, but it was felt that the desired rise and shift in output could not be achieved without also a very considerable increase in the remuneration of farmers. Therefore, in 1940, prices and subsidies were substantially enhanced.

WHEN THE POLICY of higher prices and subsidies was adopted in 1940, the government gave the farmers a pledge: "The government has now decided to go further and to guarantee that the present system of fixed prices and an assured market will be maintained for the duration of hostilities and for at least one year thereafter. Prices will be subject to adjustment to the extent of any substantial changes in the cost of production."

British agriculture was placed on a "cost plus" basis. Farm wages have about doubled, resulting in an increase in the farm wage bill of nearly $350,000,000 a year. This added cost was fully compensated.

The special wartime measures—intensive planning, increased equipment, and higher prices—have produced striking results. The output of human food from British agriculture was increased by at least 70 per cent. This expansion in production made it possible to reduce imports of food by one-half, yet the nutritive value of the country's total food supplies was maintained at a level only very slightly below prewar.

DURABLE TUNE

The marching song of two wars, "Tipperary," is even sung by Yugoslav Partisans, according to recorded proof submitted to the listening world by BBC recently. The mountain fighters had mastered the words, in a language they did not understand, as a tribute to the British soldiers among them. They had learned the song from their own Yugoslav elders who had picked it up from British soldiers in World War 1. The tune has been the greeting offered to liberating armies wherever the Allied forces have overthrown Fascist domination.

When British troops marched through the villages of France in 1930, the tunes they sang and stepped out to were "Roll Out the Barrel" and "The Washing on the Siegfried Line." But on every hand they were hailed with the refrain from "Tipperary," which the inhabitants recalled from their memories of more than a score of years ago. In Belgium it was the same. The Czechoslovak Army in Britain invariably include the marching song in their repertoire. The Poles have gone further. In an early wartime recording, recently broadcast again, they are heard singing the song in Polish—translated from the English words.

A free land is one where people elect officials who promise reform and then resign themselves to the same old mess if the officials fail.

Epics of Heroism In Company History

GALLANT AND TRAGIC new chapters have been added to the cosmopolitan history of the Canadian Pacific Steamships Limited in a review of the service performed by its vessels and men in the line of duty during this war.

The incidents, epics which have won high distinction for officers and men, and gained the heartfelt gratitude of those who have been saved by them, have recently been catalogued and released through lifting of censorship on some of the exploits.

There has been a task of tremendous proportions, a task of evacuating children to the safety of the North American continent, of carrying troops to points of action under enemy fire and of bringing the wounded from scenes of battle.

THE TOLL HAS been heavy. Company ships listed as lost include the Empress of Britain, Montrose, Beaverford, Beaverburn, sunk in 1940; Beaverdale and Beaverbrae, sunk in 1941; Duchess of Atholl, Princess Marguerite and Empress of Asia, sunk in 1942; Empress of Canada, sunk in 1943, as well as the Canadian Australasian Line's Niagara, sunk off Australia in 1940.

Former luxury liners which cut their gleaming ways through peacetime seas, donned drab work clothes for their jobs, and the achievements of many were astounding. The Asia evacuated troops from all parts of the Mediterranean on a 30,000-mile voyage which lasted five months in 1941. The Canada carried important human freight to Spitzbergen—that notable expedition.

THE HISTORY catalogues the changing fortunes of war. Log charts tell the story of one of the Duchesses braving attacks which sank a Canadian to 23 Canadian troops back to England from France in 1940. They tell, too, the story of C.P.R.-operated vessels winning praise from the Royal Navy for the parts they played in taking troops back to the continent on D-Day.

The company voices its pride in the service of 22 ships and 6,000 officers and men who have participated in wartime merchant marine activities on all the seas in this global war. And they are justified in that pride by the distinction of 71 decorations and mentions in dispatches for seagoing personnel.

Each citation is a badge of honor de constraining the calibre of the men who turned their unobtrusive peacetime abilities to the major task of assisting their country at war.

Convenient for the small family are the new two and four ounce cans of fish paste and three ounce cans of lobster tomale and meat and poultry sandwich spreads, which will appear in the retail stores after April 1. Metal will also be used to pack clam bouillon, clam chowder and fish chowder.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy. 102

Today's WAR NEWS Analysis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst
The U.S. 1st Army's crossing of the Rhine has set homefront temperatures to fluctuating violently again and everybody wants to know how soon the war will be over.

Well, in these swiftly-changing days the smart prophet hides his light under a bushel. So, while cheerfully admitting great optimism is warranted, I'm sticking to a statement I made in this column months ago. It was this:

I don't believe the Germans can maintain organized resistance very long, once the western Allies and the Russians are across the Rhine and Oder rivers respectively in great force.

Since these main defensive barriers already have been broken, that condition will be fulfilled speedily. The Russians are across the Oder in several places, and Eisenhower is pouring a veritable flood of men and material through his new bridgehead. The Germans' organized resistance soon must collapse, and that will mean the virtual end of the war, for we can discount any guerrilla activities as of comparatively minor consequence.

However, there's another and serious aspect to this question of how soon the war will end. What do we mean by "the" war? I'm afraid too many are inclined to think of "the" war in terms of Europe.

That's a terrible mistake. The

B.N.A. Amendment Needed Immediately, Says Capt. M. Cohen

If postwar Canada is to escape the ravages of mass unemployment and maintain the basic political institutions of a free society, which includes an effective parliamentary system, an independent and talented judiciary, and a free and responsible press, in the opinion of Capt. Maxwell Cohen, steps will have to be taken immediately to straighten out the division of Dominion-provincial powers and amend the B.N.A. Act.

Capt. Cohen, who is in Victoria on Department of National Defence business, made it quite clear that he was expressing only his own opinions and was not speaking in his government or military capacity.

He is firmly convinced, however, that this can be done and that democratic government can find the effective answer to the problems that will be posed once the war is over and the War Measures Act which gives vast emergency powers to the federal government is no longer valid.

BLAMES PRIVY COUNCIL

The present constitutional impasse in Canada could be laid at the door of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, Capt. Cohen said, being the result of judgments handed down on Canadian constitutional questions by Lord Watson and Lord Haldane, between the year 1895 and 1925. These two gentlemen, great legal lights though they were, he explained, obviously had not taken the trouble to read any Canadian economic, social or political history, and so in their judgments they nullified the obvious intentions of the Fathers of Confederation when the B.N.A. Act was drawn up.

He saw a Dominion-provincial conference using the Rowell-Sirois report as basic material as the first step in rectifying the impasse, followed by the formulation of tax and revenue policies that will correspond to the duties undertaken by the various governments. This conference will also have to draft amendments to the B.N.A. Act, he said, and then to protect the new division of powers appeals to the Privy Council should cease.

Capt. Cohen is well qualified to discuss constitutional and economic issues, being a law and economics graduate of the University of Manitoba and Northwestern University. He also held a research fellowship in law at Harvard, which he left in 1938 to join the Combines Investigation Commission for a year.

The outbreak of war precluded his resuming his studies, and he next joined the economic section of the Department of Munitions and Supply until July, 1941. Then for a year he was Christian Science Monitor correspondent in Ottawa. In 1942 he joined the army. He plans on going back to law after the war.

Capt. Cohen also prepared the report on Wartime Controls, one of 17 for the James Committee on Reconstruction.

Veterans Warned About Investments

"Move slowly in investing gratuity payments or in making commitments out of re-establishment credits," was the warning given ex-servicemen and women, by Forrest L. Shaw, chairman of the Victoria Citizens' Volunteer Committee.

Purpose of the committee is to assist in community re-establishment of veterans. Mr. Shaw said and added indications were numerous, particularly around military release centres, that many high-pressure salesmen were casting covetous eyes on veterans' gratuities.

Some returned men have been left with unsound businesses on their hands, because business brokers have cashed in on the desire of returned men to be on their own, Mr. Shaw said. Evidence of another drive whereby salesmen hoped to obtain part of the gratuity payments, was found in the case of a veteran who reported to the committee that he had received numerous circular letters, as soon as he was discharged, urging him to invest in mining stocks.

B.C. Should Develop Fabrication Industry

Dr. F. A. Forward, professor of metallurgy at the University of B.C. and technical director of the War Metals Research Board, told the Legislative committee on mining Friday that B.C. should concentrate on fabrication of consumer goods rather than basic industries during the post-war industrial development period.

He said some research should be conducted into that phase of production.

Dr. Forward explained the work of the War Metals Research Board, which will be absorbed into the B.C. Research Council soon.

Eva Barrie Bride Of FO. J. Donnelly

Bringing with her all the delicacy of a French Renaissance painting, Friday evening's bride, Eva Smith Barrie, entered Metropolitan United Church on the arm of her father, Frank O. Barrie. Her wedding gown of heavy white lustrous satin was hoop skirted over a lace ruffled petticoat, the looped front caught with three lover's knots of satin. Old-fashioned eyelet lace edged the long sleeves and neckline of the fitted bodice, and her illusion net veil held with two gardenias misted the long train of her gown. Her sole ornament was an heirloom pendant drop of love birds set with tiny pearls, which she wore on a wide white dog collar, and she carried an arm bouquet of gardenias and freesias.

The elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Barrie, 2841 Graham Street, the bride was preceded down the aisle by her younger sister, Miss Kay Barrie, who, as flower girl, wore primrose satin with ribboned hair bandeau. Misses Barbara Wilson and Peggy Ready in bouffant ice-blue taffeta, with elbow lace mitts, tiny sailor hats en suite and arm sheafs of daffodils, were the bridesmaids.

The groom, FO. John Norman Donnelly, R.C.A.F., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Donnelly of Winnipeg, Man. FO. E. C. Sargent, R.C.A.F., was best man, and FO. B. T. Hamill and FO. A. Morabito, D.F.C., were ushers.

Members of the groom's squadron, FO. R. C. Hawkes, D.F.C.; FO. H. Tomkins, D.F.C.; FO. W. Clarke, D.F.C.; FO. R. Elderton, FO. H. V. Yates, Flt. Lt. G. Armour, PO. A. MacLachlan, and PO. A. Diadato formed a guard of honor as the bride and groom left the church.

Rev. A. E. Whitehouse, D.D., performed the ceremony, which was followed by a reception held in the Duke of Kent room at the Empress Hotel. W. S. Thatcher, a family friend of the bride, proposed the toast.

Mrs. Donnelly wore a champagne doekin suit with pearl grey topcoat and cloche hat to match, and a corsage bouquet of mauve orchids for her honeymoon to Winnipeg and Toronto. On their return FO. and Mrs. Donnelly will take up residence at All Bay Road, Sidney.

Madame Vautrain spoke on the history and characters of the Belgium people at a meeting of the Victoria Venture Club. A social meeting was arranged for March 19 at the Aberdeen Hotel.

Dorothy Dix

Dear Miss Dix—I read in the paper about the girl who had 16 husbands. I am not surprised, for any girl who can get one husband is capable of getting as many more as she wants. I'll bet a dime that this much-married girl has a good disposition, is neat, doesn't wear slacks, lets the men do most of the talking and listens interestedly.

Furthermore, I'll bet she never misses any opportunity to make a man feel big and strong and she lets him know how much she needs his manly care and protection. Also, she hangs on his words and asks his advice and lets him see that she considers him a fascinator.

A man wants a girl to be sympathetic and kind and he likes to be teased and coddled and flattered, and he wants her to think that all the other girls are crazy about him. Any girl who will apply these arts to getting her man can marry as early and as often as she wants to.

MRS. H. R.

Answer—Cut this out and paste it on your mirrors, girls, for it contains many a helpful hint that will profit you in the husband chase.

Of course, all men don't fall for the same tactics, but there are certain basic charms that never grow stale and to which practically all men are amenable. The chief of these is keeping the spotlight focused steadily on the man you wish to catch. As long as a woman does this, he is hers. And the beauty of this simple trick is that it works just as well after marriage as before.

BEAUTY VS. INTELLIGENCE

A girl asks: "Do men admire highly intelligent women?" The answer is yes and no. Abstractly men admire brilliant women, but personally the majority of them prefer their feminine brains scrambled for their breakfast dish. What's outside of a girl's head is more alluring to them than what's inside of it; and no hostess would attempt to interest a youth in a maiden by telling him how clever and witty she was. She would devote all of her sales talk to ballyhooing her looks.

That a Kappa Gamma key is no help in unlocking the door to her own little home, of which every girl dreams, is abundantly proven by the fact that the marriage ratio is lower among college women than among others of their sex. Yet no one will deny that the more sense a woman has, the easier she is to get along with and the better wife and mother she makes.

This seeming contradiction in men's tastes and what they pick out for wives may be explained in several ways. One is that the average man is still a victim to the age-old theory that the proper position for a wife is on her knees. She must always look up to her husband. She must regard him as a second Solomon. She must take all of her opinions from him and have no mind of her own whatever. It is the fear men have of their wives being superior to them that provides husbands for the dumb Doras.

Need of Preserving Beauty of Park

As Beacon Hill Park is a spot of paramount scenic value to Victoria citizens and to tourists from outside points, Mrs. Hugh Mackenzie of the Local Council of Women and President of the Society for Preservation of Native Plants of British Columbia expressed opposition in a recent interview to "cramping" that 100-odd acres of the park with sporting facilities which could be located equally well in another part of the city.

Mrs. Mackenzie stated that if tennis and shuffleboard courts, horse shoe pitches, additional children's play apparatus and similar games and facilities were set up in the park as had been suggested by members of the Chamber of Commerce, it would prove a lesser attraction than the unspoiled beauties of the glade as they now exist.

A brief, outlining suggestions for development of the park, has been presented to the City Parks Board by the Women's Council.

10 Pounds of Sugar For 1945 Canning

Victoria housewives who intend to do home canning this year were warned by A. B. Food, local foods ration officer with the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, to save their 20 extra preserves coupons for canning sugar, rather than expend them on ready-made jam.

The canning sugar allowance will be the same as last year—10 pounds for every holder of a ration book. This is in addition to the regular sugar ration," Mr. Food said.

The system is slightly different this year from last, for in 1944 there were separate canning sugar coupons. This year there are 20 extra "preserve" coupons, each good for the purchase of half a pound of sugar. Two of these coupons will be valid on March 15, eight on May 17 and 10 on July 19.

"Coupons can be used to purchase either sugar or ready-made preserves," he said. "Under the 1945 sugar and preserves arrangements there are only two types of coupons—one good only for the purchase of sugar (one pound per coupon) and one good for buying either canning sugar (½ pound per coupon) or preserves.

"There is no need to go to the local ration board to change coupons if you want to buy your preserves instead of making them," Mr. Food said.

Ship's Crew Appreciates Red Cross By Donating

Contributions to the Red Cross drive continue to soar, and by the end of the fifth day of the campaign two-thirds of the objective had been raised.

Friday saw $15,301 come in to raise the total for five days to $66,670, and place this year's drive $18,887 ahead of the same period last year.

V.M.D.-employees turned in $1,500 to lead the list of contributors.

In checking contributions, George Riach, auditor, said that the average donation this year is well ahead of previous years. However, 78 residents of Saanich have outstripped all others, averaging $20 each to the Red Cross.

The men in the services are keenly appreciative of the work the Red Cross does. With a cheque for $50 came the following letter from the company of a ship at sea: "Enclosed please find a contribution for $50. This amount has been donated by the ship's company in grateful appreciation of your work and as a very slight attempt to say 'thank you' for all the welcome articles received on board prior to the Christmas season."

"ONE MORE RIVER"

Sir Henry Drayton, campaign chairman, spoke to a luncheon meeting of the Capital City Commercial Club Friday and took as his theme the words of the old negro spiritual, "One More River." He pictured Canadians going over the Maas River into Germany amid shell fire, and for most of them it was "one less river" to Germany; for some it was the last river they would cross, and the wounded who did not get across became the charge and responsibility of the Red Cross.

"You will see, with your money that they are looked after effectively and well," he told his listeners. "You must keep step with our men overseas who are fighting and dying for us."

One of the lady-canvassers who had 60 houses on her list promised that for every house she could not get a contribution from she would personally turn in $5 to the Red Cross. "It was a case of the Red Cross winning regardless," said Raymond Jones at the campaign office. Only two houses on her list turned her down, so she gave an additional $10 to the Red Cross.

British Columbia's official Red Cross campaign returns late Friday showed $309,102, against $264,751 for the same period in 1944.

Thirteen British Columbia centres reported themselves "over the top."

Canada Must Be Creditor Nation, Speaker Predicts

Canada must realize that if the standard of living of her people is to be maintained at the high wartime level, she will be in the future a creditor, importing nation, and not an export nation as she has been in the past, Capt. Maxwell Cohen told Canadian Club members at luncheon Friday.

Capt. Cohen scorned the old idea that it was the amount of exports that determined the wealth of a nation, maintaining that it was the imports that made for a high standard of living, as they supplied items that cannot be produced within a country. "We are bound, for the benefit of our economy to take the products of others, irrespective of whether they take ours or not," he said. "And whether or not it means an unfavorable balance of trade."

He warned his audience that he could not be too optimistic about the possibilities of postwar prosperity and full employment, when it is realized that more than half the resources and labor power of Canada are now employed in war industries to produce goods that have no peacetime equivalent.

UNEMPLOYMENT DANGER

He feared that following the declaration of peace there was a great danger of mass unemployment, pointing out that with nearly 800,000 of the most productive members of the labor supply not producing, as they are in un-form, Canada's production has soared. He advocated full employment for the production of consumer and producer goods following the war, with the surplus that cannot be consumed in Canada being sent abroad as gifts or as relief grants to war-torn countries.

He illustrated how lend-lease had worked during the war to stimulate production in many fields without there being any outside credits actually brought in, and how it had meant the actual doubling of Canada's national income over the highest prewar level.

The greatest immediate problem that will have to be faced in the postwar, Capt. Cohen insisted, was the re-establishment of the men and women from the armed forces to give them a "sense of authentic participation in the community," and also to shift the million war workers to peacetime employment.

The problem of maintaining the democratic form of government and control over bureaucrats is a great one in the face of increasing demands from the mass of people for the solution of their economic and social problems by government, he pointed out.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

Canada must, as a "middle-rank" power, be willing to make concessions and compromise in the international sphere to ensure world peace, Capt. Cohen emphasized, and leave the isolationist views that dominated her during the twenties and thirties. "Have we changed since then?" he queried his audience. "Are we prepared to promise to share in the responsibility of preserving peace, if need be, with our treasure and our lives, through an international organization?" He prophesied that for at least three years following the war, price controls would have to remain to prevent inflation until the backlog of purchasing power is used up.

"We are witnessing today in the western world a groping for a new form of social order," he concluded, "to bridge the gap between the individualism of the 19th century and the controlled society of the Middle Ages. We are trying to find a synthesis and it will take all the best statesmanship of our generation."

Professor E. S. Farr introduced the speaker, and Maj. Cuthbert Holmes moved the vote of thanks.

B.C. Police Praised

Attorney-General R. T. Maitland, asking more money for the B.C. Police in the Legislature Friday afternoon, said that organization was being built up into a fine bureau.

He said he had a letter from J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the famed Federal Bureau of Investigation in the U.S., in which Mr. Hoover said that from what he had heard and read about the B.C. Police, he believed it was one of the best police forces.

The Lions Club will give $100 to the Red Cross drive, it was decided at a luncheon meeting in Spencer's dining-room Thursday. Ernest Emery, vice-president, was in the chair. There was also a discussion on the club's toy-making activities, toys being made and sold by the club members to aid local charities.

S.P.C.A. Register Complaint on Pound And Dehorning

Dissatisfied with a recent demonstration at the City Pound, where animals were put to death by means of the fumes of auto exhaust gas, a delegation from the S.P.C.A. has urged the city park board to install equipment for cooling and filtering the exhaust gas.

Members of the board agreed to investigate suggestions of the delegation, but delegates insisted that all experiments be carried out in the presence of one of their veterinarians.

"My observations of the lethal chamber in operation confirmed my belief that the present method of destroying animals at the City Pound is not humane and could definitely be improved upon," James Barr, president of the S.P.C.A., told the park board.

At the regular meeting of the S.P.C.A. it was reported that the following have agreed to act as patrons: Lieutenant-Governor W. C. Woodward, Hon. John Hart, Hon. R. L. Maitland, R. W. Mayhew, Mrs. Nancy Hodges, M.L.A.; Mayor Percy E. George, Commissioner T. W. Parsons and Norman A. Yarrows.

Practice of "dehorning cattle immediately prior to shipping" was described as "cruel" by the S.P.C.A. meeting and society's veterinarians agreed that the animals suffered considerable pain during and after the operation and that the shipping of cattle in this condition entailed unnecessary suffering.

Long Military Career

Fine Tribute Paid Late H. G. Garrett

Tribute to the late H. G. Garrett was paid in the Legislature Friday by Attorney-General Maitland. Mr. Garrett was registrar of companies and superintendent of insurance for the government.

Mr. Maitland recalled the untiring work Mr. Garrett had done in drafting the company law of B.C. and added: "He was the outstanding insurance superintendent in Canada and none was his superior in knowledge of company law."

Mr. Speaker Norman Whitaker said he had known Mr. Garrett well and respected him as one of B.C.'s finest civil servants.

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

READING an article from Philadelphia telling about a medical research to determine whether there is such a thing as an "athletic heart" reminds me of the fact that a number of our young athletes are playing too much sport. Only the other day I noticed where a young fellow turned out for a rugged rugby match in the afternoon and then participated in a fast-moving basketball game at night. The next day he couldn't understand why he was tired when it came time for him to leave for school. Last summer another group of young fellows were out on the baseball and softball diamonds five and six nights of the week. All this in addition to school studies or eight hours work at their jobs. Burning up of so much energy cannot be the best thing in the world for a boy still in his teens. What chance has his system to build up any reserve in a body still growing?

IT SEEMS to me that too often a youngster's enthusiasm to participate in several branches of sport is allowed to override the good judgment of himself and more especially his parents. If such a boy proves himself versatile and becomes an outstanding performer in several sports naturally his services are really in demand. Much of the blame can often be laid on the doorstep of team managers and coaches. These chaps should realize a young athlete's stamina and energy can absorb only so much punishment and should make a point of calling a halt before a promising athlete is burned up before he ever reaches the peak. If there should be such a thing as an "athletic heart" sport over-emphasis is one sure way to bring on such a disease.

CHATTING to a well-known Victoria coach I learned that he has also noted with a great amount of forgiveness the reaction of young athletes to too much sport. "I have had youngsters between the ages of 14 and 16 years tell me how they have gone to sleep in their school classes owing to a weariness that was definitely the result of too much athletics," he said. "On another occasion a high school teacher told me how young athletes were absolutely no good for their studies after a hard game the day or night before. It is pretty serious when a 'teen age' youngster wants to go to sleep in the daytime when he should be full of the zip and fire that marks youth."

CONTINUING our conversation this coach told me of how it is the big tall athletes that suffer the most. "These rangy chaps who have grown too quickly, are the type that need to be nursed by coaches. The body does not grow systematically and although outwardly they have the appearance of a 17 or 18-year-old organically they are only 12 or 13. It is all right for young athletes to be ambidextrous in sport in a social way but serious play in many branches is a definite handicap to greatness. Lack of specialization will show when a youngster grows up and faces the toughest kind of competition."

TOO OFTEN the great desire to win on the part of coaches and team managers blinds them to the fact they are contributing directly to the ultimate ruin of a young athlete. I realize that youngsters between the ages of 15 and 17 are hard to control. They are sport crazy and it is a difficult job to get through to them that too much athletic activity is harmful. Unless they can be reached by some coach, big brother or parent they will continue on the path that can easily bring an end to their athletic careers just at the time when they should be hitting the peak. And, quite often parents are well aware of such sport over-emphasis but are powerless to do anything in the face of young lad's desire to reach stardom despite his tender years.

Haegg Runs Tonight

Develops Sore Legs

NEW YORK (AP) — Gunder Haegg, Swedish miler who holds six world records, has developed sore legs and doesn't believe he will be able to win tonight's Columbia mile in Madison Square Garden.

"My legs ache and I do not believe I can beat Rafferty yet," said the gaunt Gunder Friday after completing his workout in Central Park.

The Haegg leg trouble apparently is a muscular condition acquired a week ago when Gunder pushed himself through a 4.31 mile on the Garden boards only 50 hours after reaching the United States.

That's why Haegg, who will start against five United States rivals tonight, changed his plans and trained all week on grass except for Wednesday. Instead of working on the boards that day at New York University, Haegg spent the day resting.

The Swede will race against Jim Rafferty, winner of six straight this winter but ailing with a cold; Forest Elaw, only inches behind Rafferty last week; Don Burnham, United States 1,000-yard king; Tommy Quinn and Rudy Simms.

Haakon Lidman, Haegg's traveling partner, hopped his knee on a hurdle last Saturday and also isn't up to par but expects to run in the Knights of Columbus races.

Despite the ailments of three of the star athletes, tonight's show is the first sellout of the indoor season.

Leut. Joseph McCluskey, who was on a transport in the Pacific a week ago, will make his 16th straight start in the K. of C. two mile event.

Remainder of the program includes the 1,000-yard run, the 600 yard run, various field events and a series of relays involving 35 different teams.

Former Swim Greats Hold Splash Party

They didn't race at the Crystal Garden last night. Those old timers who lashed the water into foam in British Columbia and Canadian championships 20 years ago were content to idle easily in the centre of the pool. But their unchanging strokes brought back memories of days when they did compete during an era of Victoria's ascendancy in swimming.

Audrey Griffin Kiernan, who has reeled off countless miles in distance races and sprints, was inclined to swim across the tank. But it was the same old Australian crawl with the heavy scissors kick and two thrashes. Tommy Welburn and Bill Robertson paced off a sedate 50 yards together. Tommy with his rolling, long-arm stroke showing a lot of power which heaved him along in the old days. His sister, Kathleen, a champion in her early teens, still has that graceful double-rhythm six-beat which made her both one of the fastest and neatest performers of her time. Frank Gilbert, a sprinting streak 20 years ago, still hits a fast pace, but 50 yards looks a long distance to him now.

Mrs. R. W. Hiberson, diving star and fancy swimming artist, showed much of her old form in those stunts from which she gets as much fun as the spectators. Mr. and Mrs. Percy Pitt, veterans of interminable and cold life-saving classes at the old V.A.C. outdoor pool at the Gorge, found the night water a bit chilly from long absence. And watching the scene with a critical eye on some of the old guard flipping a polo ball around, was Willis T. "Dad" Barrett, who was a swimming star when the oldsters of last night were youngsters.

Rickey Supports Majors-Services Baseball Playoff

NEW YORK (AP) — Branch Rickey, the voice of the Brooklyn Dodgers, favors the suggestion that the major league winner play the champion service team in a real World Series.

It is not a new suggestion, and the chances are it will meet the fate of other suggestions along the same line. That is, it will remain just a suggestion.

At one time or another it has been suggested that the major league clubs do their spring training at service camps instead of the home towns of the rival clubs; that all-star major league clubs make overseas tours for exhibition purposes.

These and similar ideas, apparently, were killed by an early frost, although the touring all-star plan did get to the stage where the teams actually were chosen before the whole thing was called off.

That a World Series between the major winner and the service champion would create considerable interest goes without saying, and, judging from the line-ups of the rival teams in the army-navy series in Honolulu last year, the service champion might rate better than an even chance.

WOULD DRAW CRITICISM

There is one disturbing element in such a suggestion, however, this is the fact that if the service team came up with a line-up of outstanding ex-major league players, it would be right down the alley for critics, who charge that pro athletes in the service are being pampered; that they will be able to tell their grandchildren they put in their service hitch playing third base for the Honolulu champions.

The idea of these critics is that, whereas Joe Blow or Pete Zlich is snatched from his ribbon counter or service station, given his basic training, and is up there dodging Nazi or Jap bad-will offerings in a year or less, the pro stars are assembled at some safe haven, to remain playing baseball year after year until it's over over there.

If it were an all-star service team that met the major leaguers, it would be different, as the men could be brought in from various fighting sectors for the series only. But if it was just the champion team, with the stars playing together week after week, and month after month, even the liberal minded might become suspicious.

Anyway, in such a series, as in any short series, pitching is the major factor, and if the service team could have its choice of players in the service, it would seem to be a shoe-in. Johnny Vandermeer and Bobby Feller, just to name a couple of lads in uniform, could tie the most of the current crop of major league hitters in knots.

Alpine Dairy Gain A.A.U. Cage Final

SEATTLE (AP) — The Alpine Dairy of Seattle and Fee's Music Makers of Portland, moved through the first round of the Pacific Northwest A.A.U. basketball tournament and will meet tonight for the title.

The veteran Alpine team, A.A.U. champs for the last three years, handily tripped up the Tacoma Cammaranos, 52 to 36, going through the game without trouble.

Fee's, however, came from behind, 24 to 19, at the half in favor of the Coast Guard, to give a really great performance of courage under pressure and finally defeat the Seattle Service team, 48 to 45.

Bad Back Golfer's Aid

Sneed, Wood Examples

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP) — We are beginning to suspect that the best way to improve your golf game is to jolt a few vertebrae out of line or in some other way develop a good healthy creak in the back, and we think that Byron Nelson must be concealing some such ailment to give par the beating he does.

Back in 1941, when the last national open was held, Craig Wood played strapped up like a traveling bag. His back was giving him fits and the foundation garment he wore restricted his swing so he had to hit straight. All he did was win.

The current example of this lame-ward-to-better-golf is Sam Sneed, the ex-sailor, who is playing just about the best game of his career, or anybody's career. Sneed was released from the navy because of his back trouble. He might have to leave the winter tour at any time as he did once already, to rest up, and the only way he can keep playing is by wearing a steel brace. It is reported the other golfers are trying to find out where he buys them. Anyway, Sammy's trouble dates back several years and four or five years ago he would leave tours periodically because of the condition.

BETTER TEMPERAMENT Our present informant, Freddy Corcoran, says that Sneed's temperament has improved remarkably and that today he is a much better competitor than when he first flashed on the golf horizon.

"The boys in the service follow him and he has just enough hillbilly in him to be a great character on the course, and very colorful," Corcoran says. "I think his coming match with Byron Nelson should be a great show and we already have requests for additional matches in various cities throughout the country. He is just the spark this golf tour needed. And with all due respect to Byron, who, in my estimation, is one of the greatest golfers that ever lived, Sneed has given the tour an added punch."

"Lieut. Ben Hogan is in Miami and we were fortunate in getting him to play in the four-ball. Ben is assigned to temporary duty at the army hospital at the Miami-Biltmore, where thousands of boys are convalescing. He is going to teach golf and many of his pupils will be boys who have lost an arm or a leg. It is grand to see them all out there playing golf."

"I talked to Col. H. C. Chenault, who has charge of the army air force regional convalescent hospital at Miami and he said he thought golf was by far the best game for the boys to play who are convalescing and it was second to none for the boys who had lost an arm or a leg."

Corcoran says the winter tour has held up very well and the attendance has been about 25 per cent better than in past years.

Getting back to Sneed, the guy who took that fantastic history-making eight on the final hole of the national open in 1939 to lose the championship—a feat which many thought would haunt him he never would recover—now is the No. 1 man in many books and no worse than No. 2 in anybody's book.

His case offers encouragement to all golfers in the service who fear they might lose their touch before they can return to the game.

The only difference is that the other golfers don't wear braces. Now if they could just get themselves dumped by a truck or something to give them a reason to go around encased in leather like a motorcycle rider without his motorcycle and just find out where Sammy buys those back-bracing contraptions.

Graziano Scores Knockout Win Over Bill Arnold

NEW YORK (AP) — Rocky Graziano, sensational New York 152-pounder, scored one of the most startling front reversals of the boxing season Friday night when he stopped Billy Arnold of Philadelphia, in 1:54 of the third round of a scheduled eight-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Flooring Arnold three times for counts of nine, six and seven in a riotous third heat, Graziano had the 19-year-old negro in a state of collapse when Referee Frank Fullam stopped the bout. Arnold weighed 149.

Graziano carried the scrap to Arnold at the opening bell and took the first round but Arnold came storming back to cut his foe's left eye and start the blood streaming from his nose and won the second by a wide margin.

KNEES BUCKLED

The New York scrapper caught Arnold going away with a terrific right to the head in the first minute of the third round and the Philadelphia lad's knees buckled. He backed against the ropes but did not go down and Graziano swarmed over him, throwing everything he had with both hands.

Arnold slumped to the floor and rolled under the ropes. He barely got up by nine and Graziano was on top of him again, dropping him on his back with his head hanging over the first press row with a right to the head. The negro laid, obviously dazed, rolled back under the ropes and rose at the count of six but went down again in a few seconds from another murderous barrage.

As Arnold staggered to his feet at the toll of seven, Graziano was after him again and Fullam stopped the bout.

Toronto Entertains Boston This Evening

Toronto Maple Leafs have a definite intention to grab the silverware in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

More than a week before the first puck is scheduled to be dropped in the National Hockey League playoffs, Leafs are on the lookout for playoff insurance—and believe they have found it in durable Dave Kerr, Vezina Trophy winner with the Stanley Cup champion New York Rangers in 1939-40.

Not that there is anything wrong with goalie Frank McCool, coach Hap Day said in announcing that Kerr worked out with Leafs yesterday. McCool is top candidate for rookie-of-the-year award but having Kerr available and in condition may prove helpful in the playoffs.

Kerr, 35 years old, will find a good deal of experience to the Leaf line-up despite the fact he has appeared only in two exhibition games—the Moose Eccles memorial game in 1942 and the old-timers show a couple of weeks ago—since he retired three years ago.

Calgary-born McCool tonight will face the fire of the playoff hungry Boston Bruins when they attempt to break their fourth-place tie with Chicago Black Hawks.

Bruins haven't won since Feb. 17—and will play without Frank Mario, out for the balance of the season with a leg injury, and Johnny Crawford, star defenseman. Both were injured Thursday night when Bruins lost 3 to 2 to Montreal Canadiens.

Canadiens, who came out of that game without defencemen Frank Eddolls, who also suffered a leg injury, take on New York Rangers at Montreal. Rangers, trailing Boston and Chicago by one point, may be without the services of Grant Warwick, who returned to Regina when his brother Claude was killed in an accident, and Neil Colville, who would lose his amateur standing if he played.

Leafs travel to Detroit for a Sunday clash with Red Wings, Canadiens and Rangers return to New York and Hawks visit Bruins to round out the week-end schedule.

Delahunty Funeral Set for Tuesday

Funeral services for Michael Joseph (Joe) Delahunty, former sports editor of the Colonist, who died Friday in St. Joseph's Hospital, will be held Tuesday morning at 9 at St. Andrew's Cathedral. Interment will be made in the family plot, Ross Bay Cemetery. Native son of Victoria, Delahunty was employed by the Colonist for 15 years, resigning his position last October.

He is survived by a brother, William, and a sister, Lillian, both of Victoria.

Home Town Letter

DEAR SS. GREENHILL PARK while loading lumber exploded with a shattering blast at the C.P.R. docks in Vancouver. Toll of the blast was eight men missing and believed dead, 18 injured, and property damage of approximately $1,300,000. Hundreds of plate glass windows and thousands of office windows were broken in the downtown business section as the explosion rocked Vancouver about the time the streets were beginning to get crowded for the noon hour. The explosions ripped steel plating from both sides of the ship, "like paper," said survivors. Dense smoke rolled skyward in the bright sunshine, and rockets shot from the hold. Charred debris flew hundreds of feet into the air and dropped in downtown streets. A number of workers were blown off the freighter and were rescued by workers in a nearby scow.

FLT. LT. MURRAY McQUILLAN was listed as missing, Feb. 23, following air operations overseas. Cpl. Charles Watt, 1064 Southgate Street, is reported missing in action. He was with the Canadian Scottish. Sqn. Ldr. Anthony Pinhorn, R.A.F., has been posthumously awarded the D.F.C. He went to England to join the R.C.A.F. in the spring of 1939. In Victoria this week F. W. Nicholls, national director of housing, promised to look into conversion of military buildings at the old anti-aircraft camp near Sidney, to provide housing accommodation for air force families at Pat Bay. With the housing situation worse than ever in Victoria, it is believed that between 30 and 40 families could be accommodated there.

SCOTTISH Comforts Fund opened by the Times last June to raise money for cigarettes, reached $4,611 before being closed last month. C.W.A.C. is again appealing for recruits. Cdr. R. D. Ponder will retire from the navy at the end of March. Pte. Alex Thorsen has been wounded while serving in Germany. AB. Norman Pimlott and Cpl. "Perry" Perkins are back at their eastern stations after leave at home. Lt.-Col. J. L. N. Anderson, M.B.E., has received appointment to his present rank. Flt. Lt. R. W. Jones, 1020 Empress Avenue, is reported missing in action overseas. He has been with the air force for 14 months.

FOLLOWING an accident at Petawawa Camp in October, L.Bdr. H. C. Redfern, 25, R.C.A., has undergone amputation of both legs. A brother, Sgt.-Maj. Alfred Redfern, is serving with the R.C.A.M.C. on the Belgian front. Donald Middlemass, 30, is expected home from overseas service. He went to Sandhurst for his commission last September after fighting in Sicily and Italy. WO. Percy Sands, M.B.E., is with the R.C.N. overseas. Flt. Lt. Bob Ferguson, R.C.A.F., has been promoted to his new rank. Mayor Percy George has expressed concern over the dumping and storing of wood in an area on Douglas Street, adjacent to the Cycle-drome and brickyard.

MEMBERS of the Legislative municipal committee have expressed approval of the suggestion advanced by the Union of B.C. Municipalities that municipalities be given the authority to license horse racing, and charge a fee up to $500 a day.

FIRE SWEPT through top-floor rooms and attic of "Rocabella," 777 Blanshard Street, and 12 women residents were forced to flee the house, some being taken down ladders by men of the Victoria fire department. As the fire spread minor explosions were heard from gases generated by the blaze. Fire Chief Alex Munroe said the fire had originated in the bedroom of one of the residents and had burnt out that room and damaged others. Firemen were at the scene for more than four hours. Wilfred Greene, who has served in various offices of Saanich since 1919, and for the past seven years as municipal clerk, is leaving for Vancouver to take a position with the Department of Veterans' Affairs.

NAVY WON their way into final of Jackson Cup soccer series for city championship, defeating league champion Victoria West 2 to 1 in overtime. Bill and Walter Newcombe, Oak Bay's brother combination, regained possession of city golf button, defeating Gordon Verley and Robert Watson, Uplands, 3 and 2, over their home links. Victoria sportsmen get behind prisoners-of-war parcels fund with objective of $10,000. Eric McCallum re-elected president of Victoria Lawn Tennis Club, with prospects for good season.

MRS. EILEEN WILKINS is one of 25 B.C. girls attached to Canadian Red Cross headquarters overseas. Emily Carr, noted Victoria-born author and painter, died at St. Mary's Priory after a week's illness. Despite a stroke last October that affected the use of her left arm, Miss Carr continued to write and paint at her St. Andrew's Street home, remarking recently that the arm "makes an admirable paper weight." She was 74. Nine hundred volunteers are making collections in Victoria's Red Cross drive for funds now in progress. Objective is $100,000 but workers expect more.

A "Silver Trail" on downtown streets highlighted by a big parade brought $4,018 for Victoria's memorial arena, assuring its construction. F.O. William Thomas Brennan, 650 Belton, is reported missing in air operations overseas. Sgt. Sydney Hill is now presumed killed after being missing in Normandy since June 9. L.Cpl. Bob Sanderson, 23, killed in action in Holland. Capt. Carron Jameson has been in India with the Dental Corps for six months.

HOME on leave are FO. H. K. "Keary" DeBeck, D.F.C., back after two years as navigator aboard Lancasters pounding enemy bases; Sqn. Ldr. Morris J. S. Innes, P.O. W. R. Graham, Cpl. M. M. Farnon, LAC. R. S. Robinson; Cdr. Albert Craig Johns, from convoy duty; and Sgt. Roland Bland.

JAMES MELTON, Metropolitan tenor who was reprimanded by Victorians for saying on his radio program he was going to sing in Victoria and Vancouver with the temperature at 40 below, was in town this week, and received a big reception at the Royal Victoria Theatre. At the Empress he said: "Well, there are sections of B.C. where you experience sub-zero temperatures, but Victoria is a notable exception." About his audience, which picked every seat in the theatre, he said: "How could I fail to respond to such a flattering reception? I really enjoyed singing those encore numbers."

GEORGE ARTHUR LITCHFIELD Elliot has been promoted to the rank of wing commander.

Christians Owe Debt To Christ's Apostles

Text: Matthew's Gospel: Chapters 10 and 11

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.
A FEW YEARS ago Princeton University published a large book under the title: "Twelve Who Ruled," by R. R. Palmer. It was a large book, and it dealt with the 12 men who constituted the "Committee of Public Safety" which governed France during the year of the Terror in the French Revolution, when life was anything but safe. It is a small book of only a few pages, even taking all four Gospels into account, that tells of another 12, who were concerned also with safety, or salvation; but what a different 12, and what a different sort of safety!

THESE 12 were the friends of Jesus, called to be His companions and followers, fishermen some of them, and all through His making "fishers of men." To them He gave the joy as well as the hardship of sharing in His earthly ministry, and of establishing the Christian Church after He had gone, assuring them of His continued presence. "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

ANOTHER common mistake is to think of the Apostles as old men. They are almost always pictured in that way; perhaps because of their major work in establishing the Christian Church in which they became old. But when Jesus called them they were young men like himself, and Christianity in its inception was a young man's movement, full of all the enthusiasm, and adventure, and capacity for sacrifice and action, that have characterized young men's movements throughout history.

Let us rejoice that the Apostles, some of them at least, did grow to old age, guiding, counselling, beloved in the Church, which belongs to us all, and in which all of us, young and old, can have our part.

NEWLYWEDS are Joyce Geraldine Morrish and L.Cpl. William Schmidt, R.C.P.C.; Iris Carmen Noel and Sgt. Donald Andrew Buchan.

H. G. GARRETT, 67, registrar of companies and superintendent of insurance in B.C. for 27 years, died. He had lived at 1737 Hampshire Road. Mrs. Lena B. McKenzie, 78, who taught school here for 30 years, for some time at Boys' Central, died. Mrs. Olive Forest of Sooke, awarded Royal Humane Society parchment for rescue of a two-year-old son of an army private at Sooke last year. Directors of Chamber of Commerce advance new program for development of Victoria harbor. Docks at Ogden Point to be raised, new ferry slip, dredging of harbor and lengthening of breakwater being considered. UNTIL next week, and wishing you the best of luck.

Flares From Wreck May Be Menace

VANCOUVER (CP) — Unexploded ship's flares thrown from the blasted Greenhill Park may prove a menace to citizens should they find them, police warned after one had exploded Friday in the hands of Fred S. Hooks.

Hooks had a narrow escape when the blast from the flare shot bolts of fire past his face and over his shoulder after he had unscrewed the cap of the missile, police said. Several bystanders narrowly missed being burned.

Police said Hooks found the flare Thursday evening behind his place of employment, several blocks distant from where the Greenhill Park exploded. In front of fellow workers he unscrewed the cap and the flare exploded.

Only in Victoria, her native city, and the capital of the province, in which she worked and lived, has almost complete indifference been shown to the work of Emily Carr, "a great B.C. artist," Mark Kearley, chairman of the Federation of Canadian Artists, Vancouver Island Region, said in a letter sent to the mayor's office Friday.

"The Vancouver Island region of the federation humbly submits that it is the duty of the government of B.C. to insure that some, at least, of Emily Carr's paintings be purchased by the province and kept in her native city," he said.

Missionary Family Freed From Japs Brother Here Learns

A year spent hiding in the interior of Mindanao Island from the Japs, two years spent in the prison camps of the Philippines, and finally freed by the victorious American forces, is the story of Rev. Roderic M. Landis, his wife and three children, according to word received here today by his brother, Rev. F. M. Landis, 625 Harbinger Avenue, from Washington.

Both brothers are ministers of the Christian Missionary Alliance, and the one just freed has been serving as a missionary in the Philippines since 1932.

According to the telegram received here, the Landis family was liberated from Los Banos Camp, Richard, aged 10, is said to be in good health, but Patricia, 12, and Paul, 7, are not so well.

When the Japs invaded Mindanao after Pearl Harbor, Mr. Landis, his family and about 20 other missionaries, took to the hills and were sheltered by the natives there for over a year before the Japs captured them. At this time he was serving at the mission at Zamboanga, capital of Mindanao.

At first they were taken to Davao camp on Mindanao, and then transferred to Santa Tomas.

Mr. Landis never had any direct word from his brother during his internment, but the chairman of the missionary group, Rev. Francis Guibranes of Minnesota, had managed to get word through, and they knew the family was still alive.

Mr. Landis says he hopes that he will be able to see his brother within a few weeks, and there is a possibility he may visit Victoria. His home is in Phoenix, Ariz., and his wife comes from Hood River, Ore.

Winch Plans Attack On B.C. Power Bill

Harold Winch, Opposition leader in the Legislature, today gave an intimation the C.C.F. will attack the government's $30,000,000 Electric Power Bill when it comes up for debate in the House Monday.

Mr. Winch filed notice of motion to refer the bill to a special House committee with power to investigate the whole electric power problem.

In effect this motion, if adopted, would defeat the government's power program as at present drafted. The bill sets up a three-man power commission with authority to go into the business of producing electric power and to take over existing plants.

Mr. Winch's notice today was the first formal indication the C.C.F. intends to attack the power scheme and gave promise of a hot debate on the issue.

5th Army Pushes To Mile of Vergato

ROME (AP)—Allied 5th Army troops, closing in on the enemy stronghold of Vergato, southwest of Bologna, pushed to within a mile of the town from both sides today in gains along the banks of the Reno River.

Exploiting Friday's capture of Carpiano, U.S. troops moved north a mile to Sabbioni and got control of all the dominating high ground on the Reno's east bank as far as a mile north of Vergato.

On the west side of the river they occupied high ground overlooking the town of Africa, one mile west of Vergato.

Farther west, beyond the Bologna-Florence highway, troops of the U.S. 10th Mountain Division fanned out north of captured Monte Torracca.

British 8th Army patrols stabbing deeper into the spit of land separating the Adriatic from the Valli di Comacchio on the extreme east sector of the Italian front bumped into strong enemy positions and had to retire.

OAK BAY-PLAZA THEATRES
Lovely Evelyn Ankers, one of the many stars in Universal's lavish musical, "Bowery to Broadway," which is currently at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres had to spend a week rehearsing how chorus girls of the "Gay Nineties" danced.

In her role of showgirl Bonnie Latour, Evelyn is seen as one of the first dancers to don tights, which was quite an innovation some 40 years ago.

Evelyn does a number called, "Just Because She Made Them Goo-Goo Eyes," assisted by a line of girls considered fetching in the 1890's, but who would be a little heavy for today's tastes.

"Bowery to Broadway" tells a story that encompasses many years of show business. The film, one of the most star-studded ever produced, boasts Marie Monty, Susanna Foster, Jack Oakie, Turhan Bey, Louise Allbritton, Ann Blyth, Frank McHugh, Donald Cook, Donald O'Connor, Peggy Ryan and many others.

RIO THEATRE
Bill Boyd, who is starring for the 54th time as the western sleuth, Hopalong Cassidy, known as Hoppy to his pals, has been playing the same role for the past nine years. Featured players in this successful series of sagebrush sagas has changed continually, but through thick and thin Bill Boyd has played the same character. The current Hoppy thriller, "Outlaws of the Desert," is now playing at the Rio Theatre.

'Cowboy and Lady' Coming to Atlas

This is distinction of one kind or another: Merle Oberon, in a single day, put $190 worth of swimming clothes on the line.

Not that the costumes were exactly bathing suits—being yellow linen tennis dresses—but the script of Samuel Goldwyn's production, "The Cowboy and the Lady," which comes Monday to the Atlas Theatre, called for Miss Oberon to take repeated dunkings in a swimming pool.

The scene showed a minor disagreement between Miss Oberon and her co-star Gary Cooper who, with inebriated but masterful strength, dropped her five times into an elaborate Florida swimming pool constructed at the Goldwyn studios. Miss Oberon's dresses, at $38 per garment, each survived but one swim.

Alan Ladd Resumes Hollywood Career

After being mustered out of the Army, Alan Ladd hid himself to Hollywood, ready for another pistol role, but found he was tagged for a straight dramatic lead in "And Now Tomorrow," adaptation of the Rachel Field best-seller which opens Monday at the Capitol Theatre. Miss Field authored the famous novel, "All This and Heaven, Too."

Friends and co-workers of the star kept dropping in all day to wish him good luck as shooting got under way. The scene, itself, was one of festivity as it marked the birthday dinner party of Beulah Bondi, who has an important role in this romantic drama of New England. Present was the entire line-up of principals from the film: Loretta Young, Susan Hayward, Miss Bondi, Barry Sullivan and Cecil Kellaway.

Alan Mowbray Gets Treasury Citation

Alan Mowbray was mighty proud of the letter of commendation he received from the treasury department, citing him for his work on a bond selling tour. The letter came while he was busy in his featured role in "Holy Matrimony," which co-stars Monty Woolley and Grace Fields and is due Monday at the York Theatre. The biggest day Mowbray experienced was in Richmond, Va., where in a single afternoon he sold more than $500,000 worth of bonds.

Of course, Mowbray was the first to admit, the dozen Powers models who accompanied him on the trip deserved much of the credit—but $500,000 will still buy a lot of bullets.

Rio to Present Midnight Matinee

Several months ago, Martha O'Driscoll, currently appearing with Noah Beery Jr., in Universal's "Week-end Pass," at the Rio Theatre, Sunday midnight, received a request for three photographs. The letter, written by the radio operator, waist gunner and tall gunner of a Liberator bomber flying in raids over France and Germany, explained:

"We'd like to put the pictures at each of our posts in the plane." Then Martha received a second communication. The note read: "We wish you'd send us three more pictures. The ones you sent recently are full of holes." Martha immediately dispatched two more sets, one to be placed in the plane and the other to be held as a replacement.

"I'm willing to be shot a thousand times by proxy if it will help keep the boys happy," says Martha.

DOMINION THEATRE
The blonde beauty of Madeleine Carroll and the dark charm of Ronald Colman are combine in the filmization of Anthony Hope's adventurous novel, "The Prisoner of Zenda," which is now at the Dominion Theatre. The picture, produced by David O. Selznick, who provided such picture hits as "David Copperfield" and "A Star Is Born," has Miss Carroll and Colman in the leading roles in this adventurous romance.

CADET THEATRE
Five new hit songs—count 'em, including such numbers as "Too Romantic," "The Moon and the Willow Tree" and "Kaijoo"—are heard, and at least 500 comedy gags are registered in the new Paramount picture, "Road to Singapore," which is now at the Cadet Theatre, starring Bing Crosby, Dorothy Lamour and Bob Hope.

Demand Well-Water Cut Off in Ward

Protesting ratepayers of Saanich Ward One met in the C.C.F. Hall, Richmond Road, Friday evening, to pass a motion that the council be requested to stop the Cordova Bay well-water supply to their ward. They further moved the council see that city water was provided in accordance with the Saanich Water By-law.

A. E. Horner, who called the meeting, put the motion. Fred Borden was chairman.

Speakers at the meeting condemned the water being supplied from the well as "not fit for human consumption." One ratepayer believed the water harmful to one's health; while another complained it was having serious effect on the water coils in his stove.

Ward One Councillor Tom Alexander outlined efforts of the council to secure adequate water supply for all areas in the municipality. Asked by members who had been responsible for use of the Cordova Bay well despite the fact two by-laws had been turned down by residents in the area, Councillor Alexander did not answer the question. No one could tell, not even the reeve, he said.

T. Anderson struck out at the council's policy and stated he felt Reeve E. G. Warren had made a "terrific blunder" in the water question. He also suggested a detailed investigation by the provincial government into council activities in regard to the water question.

Seek Protection Of Inner Ward

Noting serious moves towards secession by Saanich Wards Three, Five and Six, ratepayers of Ward One, meeting in C.C.F. Hall, Richmond Road, Friday evening, appointed a special committee to get in touch with Wards Two and Seven and part of Four with a view to protecting interests of inner wards in regard to the secession.

Maurice McGregor Tells of Plans for Canada's Air Growth

HAMILTON, Ont. (Special)—Canadian aircraft winging over four continents, sweeping over three seas and linking Canada closer with the peoples and nations of the world, was pictured here before the Ontario Air Conference by Capt. F. Maurice McGregor, operations superintendent, Trans-Canada Air Lines. (Capt. McGregor was born and learned to fly in Victoria, B.C.)

Profound economic, political and social changes will follow the development of air then, said Capt. McGregor, and Trans-Canada Air Lines is ready to play its part in the moulding of the new world of the future.

In a review of the economics of air then, he predicted that the immediate postwar period in Canada would see a moderate expansion in business for the two extremes in the air industry, the pioneer or bush operator, and the interurban operator.

"There is," said Capt. McGregor, "an economically sound basis for the development of an air transport industry in Canada peculiar to Canadian needs. In the immediate postwar period we may expect a considerable expansion of services into the outlying areas of the pioneer or small freighter type, and services of this nature will play an increasingly important part in the development of Canada. An expansion of main line interurban service may be expected, including possibly the carriage of all first-class mail by air. Local passenger, mail and cargo services between the smaller centres of population is a natural division with tremendous possibilities."

MUST REDUCE COSTS

Operating costs must be reduced, he said, before the airlines could obtain a larger share of cargo and express traffic. Until operating costs are pared, the contribution of the air transport industry to the national economy will exceed materially the financial return to the airline operator. Out of every dollar that T.C.A. spends for wages, materials, fuel and aircraft, approximately 13c go to the public treasury for customs duty and sales tax.

It is possible today to fly from New York to Chungking in 38 hours, from Australia to San Francisco in 35 hours. Aircraft now on the draughting boards, or in process of assembly, will dwarf present-day equipment in range, speed and carrying capacity.

"We are rediscovering geography in terms of time rather than distance," said Capt. McGregor. "No place on this earth's surface is more than 60 hours distant from any other place. These times will be shattered within the next five to 10 years and the nations of the world and their peoples will be brought closer together. Canada has a definite part to fill in international air transportation. We have geography on our side, our military aviation has a reputation second to none, and our aspirations are not looked upon with suspicion as is so often the case when a smaller nation is dealing with one of the great powers. Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Reconstruction, has indicated Canada's interest in trans-oceanic flights across the north Atlantic, to the West Indies and Latin America and across the Pacific. T.C.A. is prepared to play its part in the moulding of this new world of the future."

Repair Big Yacht

One of the world's largest yachts, the 1,223-ton Fantome II, will be in drydock at Seattle this week for cleaning and painting.

The vessel, owned by A. E. Guinness, brewery magnate of London, Eng., is well known to Victorians, having visited here in 1939. She has been on this coast ever since.

3 Divisions, 1 Brigade, Canadian Units In Northern Rhine Region Drive

By ROSS MUNRO
WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY IN GERMANY (CP)—In the northern Rhine offensive, the 2nd and 3rd Canadian Infantry Divisions, the 4th Armored Division and the 2nd Armored Brigade all saw heavy fighting during the big push by British and Canadian troops of the 1st Canadian Army which broke the anchor of the Siegfried Line and precipitated the breakup of the German front west of the Rhine.

FROM CAEN TILL NOW
These veteran formations, which have fought together from Caen into Germany, made up the total Canadian combat strength on the western front.

Disclosure of these formations' activities Friday night also revealed the breakup of between eight and nine divisions to the actual fighting.

This offensive marked the third time the 3rd Division and the 2nd Armored Brigade have been in heavy action simultaneously. They fought down the Caen-Falaise road together last August and later teamed up in the battle for the Scheldt estuary in the southwest Netherlands.

When the current offensive was launched Feb. 8, Gen. Crerar gave the kick-off assignment to the British 50th Corps, which advanced against the Reichswald area. He placed the 3rd Canadian Division and two battalions of the 2nd Division under temporary British command.

As British 30th Corps troops smashed through the Reichswald the 3rd Division attacked through the wastes of floodland between the northern side of the forest and the Rhine. The two 2nd Division battalions carried out their special assignment of capturing Wyler on the Nijmegen-Kleve highway.

British troops captured Kleve and Goch, although some 3rd Division troops cleaned up some snipers in Kleve. The 3rd Division cleared the banks of the Rhine to Emmerich, northeast of Kleve, and as a result of these watery assaults were dubbed the "water rats."

The 2nd Division came up in strength and fought several stiff engagements south of Kleve, clearing the woods and farms on the road to Calcar, seven miles southwest.

The 3rd Division and the 2nd Armored Brigade also fought through this area, which was criss-crossed with trench systems and dotted with gun positions as a backdrop for the main Siegfried Line defenses, which ran through the Reichswald.

These divisions were then under the 2nd Canadian Corps, led by Lt. Gen. Guy Simonds of Kingston, Ont., and Victoria, B.C., which had come into the picture by taking up the centre and east of the Maas-Rhine line, while the British 30th Corps operated on the west.

The 2nd Corps was given the assignment to launch the second broad phase of the offensive, which was to thrust southwest of Calcar and assault the Hochwald Line—the last prepared defensive zone of the northern Siegfried anchor, pivoting about Kleve.

For this attack Gen. Simonds had two Canadian Infantry Divisions and an armored brigade, plus the 4th Armored Division and two British Divisions—one infantry and one armored.

Premier King Talks With F.D.R. On 'Middle Powers' At Conference

WASHINGTON (CP)—Prime Minister King's conversations with President Roosevelt were scheduled to continue throughout today and his visit to the White House may be prolonged until some time Sunday.

Mr. King talked this morning with Joseph C. Grew, Under-Secretary of State, and this afternoon visited the British embassy.

The Prime Minister was believed to be discussing mainly the procedure to be adopted at the San Francisco World Security Conference opening April 25, which Mr. King is expected to attend as head of the Canadian delegation.

The Canadian government is expected to have proposals for modifying the terms of the Dumbarton Oaks agreement on a world organization for peace, reflecting the attitude of the so-called "middle powers" whose influence in the organization, under the Oaks agreement, would be no greater than the smallest of the 44 United Nations so far invited to the San Francisco conference.

There have been reports that Mr. King might be in line for election to the chairmanship of the conference if the United States, which as the host nation would have the first right, should decline to accept the honor.

Jap Imperial Palace Grounds Licked by Tokyo Raid Flames

GUAM (AP)—A "hellish sea of fire" touched off by the greatest raid ever made by Superfortresses, engulfed the heart of Tokyo today and eddied up to the Imperial Palace grounds.

"It looked like the whole town was burning," said one airman returning from the first mass night-time raid on the enemy capital.

More than 300 B-29s poured thousands of incendiaries on the city, causing "50 times more damage" than the record Feb. 25 raid, which devastated 240 city blocks, said Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Power.

Two Superfortresses were lost in the raid, 20th Air Force headquarters said in a communique today.

A Japanese communique asserted fires broke out at the Imperial Palace but were put out before 3 a.m. Previously Tokyo radio had said flames had reached the emperor's stables. The communique claimed all fires were under control by 8 a.m.

Gen. Power said one 500-block area was engulfed by flames.

Hit by Army Jeep Rushed to Hospital

Struck down on Esquimalt Rd. at Head St. by an army jeep just as he stepped to the pavement from a truck, Alfred Bond, 50 Government Street, was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital by Esquimalt police shortly after noon today. He is being attended by Dr. A. C. Sinclair.

Auto License Issue Shows Gain Here

A substantial increase in the number of auto licenses issued this year was noted by provincial police motor license branch today.

Up to the beginning of the month the Victoria office had issued 15,309 passenger car licenses compared with 12,740 last year, and 2,816 commercial licenses against 2,468 last year.

It was explained the Victoria office also handles mail orders for licenses going to various parts of the province, so that all these cars are not in the Victoria region.

Three Men Injured In Car Collision

Three men were injured shortly after noon today when cars driven by Neils A. Neilson, Ivor Road, and F. G. Popphar, G. & C. Taxi, were in collision at Government and Michigan Streets.

The three men who were rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital by City Police Constables C. Webb and R. Davidson, were J. C. Knott, Burnside Road, who complained of injured ribs; R. D. Chandler, who suffered a deep cut over the right eye, and W. Birtwistle, Grenville Avenue, who was injured in the right ribs.

Canadian Army Wings Join Near Rhine

AT 21ST ARMY GROUP HEADQUARTERS (AP)—1st Canadian Army troops west of the Rhine, thrusting north from Veen, have linked up with others thrusting south from Xanten. After cutting the main Xanten-Rheinberg road, Scottish soldiers made a two-mile advance, reaching into Menzelen.

Russian Forces Enter Altdamm; Bombard Danzig

LONDON (AP)—Russian forces apparently have won some streets in Altdamm, the east bank suburb of Stettin, and may have gained a foothold on the west side of the Dammacher Lake just north of Berlin's Baltic port, Moscow dispatches reported today.

Stettin itself was under artillery fire for the first time, and the Russians also were lobbing shells into the defenses of Danzig. Altdamm is 3½ miles east of Stettin on the east side of the Oder. Dammacher Lake is the lagoon-like water 2½ miles wide and 10 miles long northeast of Stettin through which the Oder finds its way to the sea.

"Altdamm was subjected to intense artillery and mortar fire and the Russians appeared to have won some streets in this suburban town of Stettin," correspondents in Moscow reported.

"Soviet storm units which have been moving out into the Dammacher Lake appeared to have won some places on the western bank under heavy artillery fire from guns firing from the east bank of Stolzenhagen, Frauendorf and Zuelenow," one report said.

Russians Pouring Across Oder, Nazis Say

The Germans said the Russians were pouring reinforcements across the Oder River on both sides of Kestrin, and Moscow said other Red Army units had plunged to the outskirts of both Stettin and Danzig.

The Paris radio early today said one of three Russian columns driving on Danzig had broken into the city, and street fighting was under way.

Enemy broadcasts declared Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army was consolidating its west bank Oder River bridgehead in the frontal assault on Berlin although thrown back from Seelow, 25 miles from the German capital, after penetrating to that town Thursday.

The Russian drive from Kuestrin, Oder fortress which Berlin said had been partly overwhelmed, from all accounts appeared to be at least the initial stages of a grand-scale offensive into the heart of Germany, despite the fact that the Russian high command for the third successive day shrouded the action in military secrecy.

Only 5 Miles From Stettin Docks

The regular Soviet communique announced Red Army forces had rolled within five miles of the docks of Stettin, great Baltic port for Berlin, and had struck within nine miles of Danzig City in the area where scores of thousands of Germans are trapped.

The war bulletin said Zhukov's northern wing gained three to five miles Friday on a rough 30-mile arc east of Stettin, capturing Muehlenbeck, three miles southeast of Altdamm, gateway city to the big enemy stronghold at the mouth of the Oder.

North of Stettin, Moscow said, Russian troops took Wolfshorst, only a mile from the narrow channel leading from the Dammacher See to Stettin.
